Pearson Attacks Tory 'Cult of Personality'

Liberals Rely On Voters' Intelligence

TORONTO (CP)—Lester B. Pearson says that unlike the Progressive Conservatives, the Liberals have rejected the "cult of personality, whether expressed in terms of dictatorship or demagoguery."

The Liberals, instead of depending on "oracular fervor and circus crusades," appealed to voters, "essential goodwill and intelligence," the party leader said Monday night in a national television broadcast.

Comparing the two major parties, Mr. Pearson suggested that a political leader had to do more than "rhapsodize about a vision of the future." He had to state clearly his ideas on policy and legislation touching on the lives of all Canadians.

PRACTICAL PROGRAM

The Liberals had put before the public an election program based on the alleviation of financial suffering among the lower-income families; on bringing tax-sharing equality and justice to the provinces; on increasing aid for education and expanded social security for all Canadians.

"Behind all of these particular policies is an attitude of mind toward people, toward resources, toward government itself."

And even in an age when governments tend to spread their activities over men's affairs, "it is the Liberal attitude which will draw a line and say so far and no further can you go without endangering a free society itself."

In outlining the Liberals' proposals before his television audience, Mr. Pearson questioned whether in fact there was a "Conservative" approach to Canada's problems "when personality dominates policy" in the Conservative party.

NO DIVINE GIFT

Historically, the Conservative leader in his many speeches, promising so many exciting things to so many men, may well cause you to ask whether the Conservatism of his party has not been changed. But is this the true voice of Conservatism or merely that of the present leader?

"Surely nothing could be more remote from the hard-headed realistic core of the Conservative party than the circular fervor and the circus crusades that mark certain Conservative public performances in this election."

Mr. Diefenbaker talked of visions of the future. Mr. Pearson said he did not pretend to be a prophet. He had no divine gift to state with certainty what the future will bring.

"But I do know — and you know — that no land on this globe has a brighter destiny under Providence than ours. I know also that there can be no greater pride and honor for any Canadian than to be called to advance that destiny by taking his full responsibility in helping to make Canada great in all the things that matter."

"In that spirit, Liberalism has fought this campaign and in that spirit—with the support of Liberal-minded Canadians—I believe we shall win it."

Former prime minister St. Laurent tossed a lariat for the Liberals Monday night with an open letter urging support for Lester B. Pearson to restore "the stability and growth that the Diefenbaker government has not been able to maintain."

Because of his health, the 76-year-old retired Liberal leader has spent most of the campaign on vacation in Florida, where he still is.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our Father in heaven, we would unite in thanksgiving for our parents. For the guidance of fathers and mothers in our earlier years, for their teaching and example, for their long patience and forgiveness, we praise Thee. To the living may we show our devotion or it be too late. May we cherish in loving memory those who have finished their course on earth. God of our fathers, be the God of their succeeding race. Amen.

CCF Leader Blasts Tory 'Deception'

TORONTO (CP) — CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell returned to active campaigning Monday night with charges of deception and betrayal against the Progressive Conservative government.

An estimated 2,500 persons packed Massey Hall nearly to capacity for the last CCF rally in this area before the March 31 federal election.

They cheered the 69-year-old former school teacher when he said: "My chest is cleared up. My heart is in good shape."

For Mr. Coldwell, it was his first platform appearance since he returned to Ottawa from Western Canada March 14 for a rest. He suffered a heart attack last year and earlier in this year's campaign was forced to cancel engagements due to a chest ailment.

HITS PIPELINE "DEAL"

He spoke forcefully for more than an hour, mainly on unemployment and the government's failure to correct "the nefarious deal" in pipeline speculation which was criticized by the Conservatives while they were in opposition in 1956.

He cited what he said were huge profits made by a Ralph Harris of Vancouver and Frank McMahon of Calgary and said that Toronto consumers would find the profits reflected in inflated gas rates when the pipeline reaches here from the West.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's claim that the government has launched a $1,000,000,000 public works program to beat unemployment is "outright deception to achieve a political end."

He said "the total expected increase in capital expenditures by the federal government and the provincial governments together is less than 10 per cent of what Mr. Diefenbaker has implied is the new federal public works program."

Dutch Cheer Royal Pair

AMSTERDAM (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth and Queen Juliana, Europe's only two women sovereigns, kissed each other on both cheeks today when the British monarch arrived on a three-day state visit to the Netherlands.

The two queens embraced with broad smiles as Elizabeth, accompanied by Prince Philip, set foot on the landing stage here from the royal yacht Britannia.

Tens of thousands of cheering citizens were on the streets to greet the first British royal visitors to Holland in three centuries.

Jet Pilot Killed During Display

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — A Dutch Thunderstreak jet plane taking part in the display in honor of Queen Elizabeth crashed today, killing the pilot, The Netherlands Air Force announced.

The air force said the pilot had to leave the formation of 84 jet fighters which flew over Amsterdam because of "some trouble."

He tried to return to his base at Eindhoven, but the plane crashed as he was about to land.

'Gloom-Doom' Doctrine Hit By Diefenbaker

HALIFAX (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker says Canada's trade and employment picture is brightening under his Progressive Conservative government.

He emphasized that theme in two speeches Monday night, one over a national television network and the other to a capacity audience of nearly 2,200 in a downtown theatre.

He said the Liberal "doctrine of gloom and doom" is that Canada's export trade is declining.

"Why don't they tell the Canadian people that Canada's export trade last year was the largest in history?"

DEFICIT CUT

In the first two months of this year the trade deficit—excess of imports over exports—had been cut by $100,000,000. Mr. Diefenbaker gave no details. The two-month trade deficit a year ago was $140,200,000.

"We have increased our export trade in the face of great international difficulties and of a business recession in the United States, where there are over 5,000,000 unemployed."

He said Canadian unemployment "arose directly as a result of the tight-money policy of the last government, carried on too long."

"We're over the peak of unemployment as a result of our policies and I can see light ahead—employment reasonable and complete in the next few months."

Arrow Jet In Thunderous Aerial Bow

TORONTO (CP) — A huge white jet interceptor which could become Canada's chief defence weapon against enemy attack darted through blue skies over nearby Malton Airport today on its maiden flight.

The CF-105 Arrow, costliest aircraft ever built in Canada, took off with a thunderous roar that shook buildings. It landed 35 minutes later on schedule.

Veteran test pilot Jan Zurauskowski took the delta-winged Arrow to 8,000 feet while two "chase planes" photographed its flight characteristics.

Hundreds of people lined roads around the airport to watch the flight. Many were workers from the nearby Avro Aircraft Limited plant where the Arrow was designed and built in three years at a cost of $200,000,000.

18 MONTHS PREPARATION

Although the Arrow is capable of speeds up to 1,200 miles an hour, Zurauskowski, Polish-born Second World War pilot who spent 18 months preparing for the flight, was under instructions to keep the plane under 400 miles an hour.

Watchers saw the Arrow shoot down the runway on take-off at more than 200 miles an hour and climb sharply. It circled the airport and cut away, closely trailed by an RCAF Sabre and an Avro CF-100.

Fire and crash trucks stood by as the 30-ton Arrow returned at its 200-mile-an-hour landing speed. It sped past the trucks, then released a parachute brake to cut the speed.

The Arrow was powered by twin J-75 jet engines produced in the United States. Later they will be replaced by new Iroquois engines developed by Avro's sister company, Orenda Engines Limited.

Students Picket U.S. Embassy In Indonesia

Seato is the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

The students sent a resolution to American Ambassador Howard P. Jones condemning foreign intervention and demanding that the United States stop American-made arms being delivered to central Sumatran rebels.

Jones told the students the U.S. has no intention of interfering in Indonesian affairs.

TITLE FIGHT ON RADIO AT 8

Although the world middle-weight fight between champion Carmen Basilio and ex-champ Sugar Ray Robinson will not be telecast tonight, it can be heard on radio.

Starting at 8 from Chicago the fight will be broadcast on CJVI (900), CBU (600), and KIRO (710).

Red Summit Price Too High—Dulles

U.S. Secretary Puts Cold Water On Latest Plan

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today flatly rejected Moscow terms for a summit meeting as far too high a price for the free world to pay.

The Soviet price, if paid, would mean that the United States would "lose its shirt" even before a summit parley were called, Dulles told a news conference.

Dulles said Soviet notes regarding a summit meeting are becoming increasingly harsh. If these notes are a preview of a summit parley, Dulles said, it would be better not to have any East-West conference at the summit. But he did not entirely rule out a summit meeting—if Moscow lowers its price tag.

DEMANDS REPEATED

In a note delivered Monday to the United States, Moscow held firm on its previous demands on a summit meeting. These demands previously had been rejected by the United States. The Soviets called for a preliminary foreign ministers conference next month which would only arrange topics, participants, time and place for a summit meeting. The Soviets ruled out any real advance discussion of basic issues dividing East and West. The United States holds that such discussion is a vital preliminary to a summit meeting.

Dulles told newsmen that the Soviets are trying to exact a terribly high political price as a condition to having a summit parley. Asked whether this price is "too high as it now stands," Dulles said flatly that it is too high.

NO ADVANCE MADE
And the secretary said that Monday's Soviet note failed to advance prospects for a summit meeting.

Reading from a prepared statement, Dulles listed four Soviet "price-tags" as follows: treating Eastern European satellite governments and Western sovereign states on the same basis; accepting the "legitimacy" of the Eastern German puppet regime; "acquiescence" in the continued division of Germany; and ending four-power responsibility to re-unify Germany.

Dulles also said the Soviets are trying "further to weaken the United Nations," and to formulate items for a summit meeting in such a way that "virtually every item—nine out of 11—implies acceptance of a basic Soviet thesis that the Western powers reject."

Dulles said he believes the Soviets are still willing to negotiate further in order to have a summit meeting. But if the latest Soviet note is an ultimatum, he said the outlook for a top-level meeting is dark.

Helicopters were used to carry the injured to a hospital, where a parking lot was pressed into service as a landing port.

Flames still were roaring into the sky hours after the crash. R. H. Sands, the dump watchman who summoned help but was prevented by underbrush from forcing his way to the scene himself, said it was about 20 minutes before rescue crews arrived.

"Those were the longest 20 minutes I ever spent," he said. "I could hear the passengers yelling for help and there was nothing I could do."

Pete Vigna, 67, American Civil Aeronautics Administration official who had boarded the plane to return to his post in Colombia, suffered only a cut ear.

"The plane was running good until it hit about 1,500 feet," Vigna said. "All of a sudden, the engine next to the fuselage on the right sputtered fire."

"The next thing I knew, the world had fallen out beneath me ..."

HE'S NO STUFFED COUGAR

This snarling, 70-pound B.C. cougar "kitten" is posing a problem for the men of the RCAF's 432 (Cougar) Squadron at Bagotville, Que. It was shipped there over the weekend by rival fighter crews from 409 Squadron at Comox. The eastern airmen had only asked for a stuffed cougar to decorate their ready room, but Comox decided to go one better. Besides the housing problem, the kitten demands a chicken a day for food.

Victorians Draw Starters In $140,000 Irish Sweep

Two Victorians have a chance to win $140,000 in the Irish Hospitals Sweepstake on the Grand National steeplechase on Saturday.

They drew starters in the race.

One ticket, on Richardstown, a 100-to-1 shot, is held by Mrs. V. H. V. Shepperd, 1857 Bowker Place. She used the non-deplume Trudy—the name of her cat.

Another ticket on Limber Hill, also a 100-to-1 shot, is held by a person with the non-deplume Goldmine, not yet identified.

Three other Victorians have drawn non-starters and will each get $1,584.

They are: Mrs. E. Profit, 2260 Dunlevy, who drew Vigor under the non-deplume "Carless."

"Old Soke," unidentified, who drew non-runner Ontario.

"Dorothy Ethel," unidentified, drawing the non-runner Richardstown.

The sweep this year reached a new high in prize money with $7,540,000 being divided into 22 separate pools.

A ticket on the winner is worth $140,000, second $56,000 and third $28,000.

Tickets held throughout B.C. include the following:

Skatealong non-runner: TPL 38593, Will Do, Vancouver.

Star Near Collapse At Mike Todd's Rite

CHICAGO (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor, on the verge of collapse, threw herself upon the coffin of her husband, Mike Todd, before his funeral services today.

She screamed wildly in grief as she approached the family plot in Waldheim cemetery for simple services of the Jewish faith.

Todd, 30, and three companions were killed Saturday in an airplane crash.

The actress' feet never touched the ground as she was borne from her limousine to the graveside by her brother,

Howard Taylor, and her physician, Dr. Fredrick Kennerly.

BROTHER OBJECTED

Todd's older brother, Carl Goldbogen, 51, a taxi driver, started screaming when the funeral party entered the cemetery.

Carl, who had been estranged from his brother, Mike, since 1938, objected to the presence of Richard Hanley, Todd's executive secretary, at the family gathering.

When others tried to quiet him, he shouted:

"Throw me out. I dare you to throw me out. I will not be here while Hanley is here. I know I'm only poor Carl."

Finally, his brother, Frank, talked quietly and earnestly to him and replied, "I'll do it for you Frank."

Survivors of the noted movie and stage producer, following his expressed wishes, brought his remains to Waldheim cemetery in suburban Forest Park. He had asked, they said, to be buried near his father, Rabbi Chaim Goldbogen.

Pearson Plan Worthy of Talks Dulles Comments

WASHINGTON (CP)—State Secretary Dulles said today Lester B. Pearson's suggestion that the United States negotiate directly with Russia after working out a careful plan and policy with its allies would place a very heavy responsibility on the U.S.

He told his weekly press conference that the proposal advanced by the Canadian Liberal leader was something the NATO countries would have to talk over. It was something he found difficult to comment on.

He said he would not slam the door on such unilateral negotiations, but he suggested they would place a heavy responsibility on his country.

Pearson said last week that he does not believe a summit meeting would be as effective as diplomatic negotiations in settling East-West differences. But if a summit conference were held, "it should be confined to the United States and Russia, with the former having previously discussed with its NATO allies the policies to be put forward."

More Oil Import Bans Likely by Washington

AUSTRALIA DENIES SEEKING QUEEN MOTHER, VICE REGENT

CANBERRA, Australia (Reuters). — A government spokesman denied today as "completely untrue" a Sydney newspaper story that Australia and Canada are fighting behind the scenes to have the Queen Mother as governor-general.

The Sydney Sun in a story from its London correspondent says sources close to the Palace said the Queen Mother is almost certain to be next governor-general of one of the countries.

The newspaper says Canadians are pressing their right on seniority grounds.

The correspondent says "Palace circles know that the Queen Mother herself is anxious for such a Dominion posting" but "has not expressed preference for any Dominion."

(From Times News Services)

ROQUEBRUNE, France.—Sir Winston Churchill appeared today to have all but recovered from a return of lung trouble. His local physician said a few weeks of good weather would make him "a very well man."

Dr. David Roberts of Monte Carlo, a Welshman who looks after Churchill when he is visiting the Riviera, described his famous patient as having suffered a "mild recurrence of a former illness that has been passed off."

He said the 82-year-old statesman is "in very good shape, eating well and is a very happy man." Further, more, he added, Churchill once more is smoking his famous cigars.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. Prince Aly Khan, Pakistan's chief United Nations delegate, gave a big diplomatic reception Monday night celebrating his country's republic day. It was his first public party since he arrived in New York to take up his new duties.

LONDON — Philosopher Bertrand Russell said Monday night it is "absolutely insane fanaticism" to prefer destruction by nuclear bombs to submission to a hostile nation.

"If the Communists conquered the world it would be very unpleasant for a while but not for ever," the 86-year-old Nobel Prize winner said in a filmed interview on the independent television network. He added: "But if the human race is wiped out, that is the end."

PARIS — Friends of the Marquis de Cuevas and retired ballet dancer Serge Lifar sought a face-saving compromise today to avoid a duel between the two. They were afraid someone would get hurt.

The only result was a postponement from dawn today when the 72-year-old marquis and the 52-year-old choreographer were to have met in the woods somewhere on Paris outskirts.

"My Spanish blood will help me in the fight," the marquis, a former Chilean and now an American citizen said. "I'll kill him."

Lifar, depending on his greater agility, said he would authorize the older marquis to wear armor "if the old man is afraid."

HALIFAX—Mrs. John Diefenbaker received medical treatment Monday for sharp muscular pains in her back but kept an appointment as guest of honor at a public reception.

A member of the prime minister's staff said Mrs. Diefenbaker has been advised to use crutches for a couple of days to help ease the discomfort. He said the pain apparently has no connection with a slipped disc she suffered some time ago.

NEW YORK — The New York State tax commission filed a $5,590 tax warrant against Judy Garland for alleged unpaid 1952 state income taxes. The actress was listed in the warrant as owing $4,678 in unpaid taxes plus interest of $912. She now is appearing in a Brooklyn restaurant.

PARIS — The Jules Verne Museum said it will have a Mike Todd Room in honor of the producer of "Around the World in 80 Days," based on Verne's novel.

Cabinet Group Completes Study To Make Report

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States is expected shortly to impose further restrictions on imports of crude oil from Canada and other oil-producing countries.

A cabinet committee set up by President Eisenhower to review current import restrictions has just about completed its work and observers here say there is every expectation it will recommend a further reduction in oil imports.

Eisenhower is expected to accept the committee's recommendations.

There is no immediate indication when the new restrictions will come into force but some sources suggested the new program might be announced this week.

The government initiated a voluntary oil import program last July, asking U.S. imports to reduce shipments coming into all areas of the United States east of the Rocky Mountains.

Canadian shipments, which enter the U.S. at the west coast, were largely unaffected until Jan. 1, when the administration extended the restrictions to the Pacific coast region. Under the program, Canadian imports were reduced to 64,000 barrels a day from their 1957 daily average of 81,700 barrels.

The state department last month rejected a Canadian diplomatic protest over the extension of the reduction to Canadian supplies.

Hoffa Threat To Country, Say Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rackets investigating committee said today James R. Hoffa, president of the teamsters union, is a betrayer of labor and "dangerous to the country."

In a report prepared for the Senate, the committee described Hoffa as a man with a lust for power who has built "a hoodlum empire" in his giant union. It termed Dave Beck, Hoffa's ally and predecessor, a man who could not resist temptation to engage in "thievery" of the union's funds.

And it accused Frank W. Brewster, west coast teamster leader and a lieutenant to both Hoffa and Beck, of involvement in a thwarted "plot to control vice" in Portland, Ore., through crooked deals with politicians and racketeers.

"The stench of corruption permeates many" in the teamsters high command, said the committee headed by Senator John McClellan (Dem., Ark.). More than half the bulky overall text was devoted to the teamsters.

Tory Makes New Charges On Car Sales

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ernie Broome, Progressive Conservative candidate for Vancouver South, produced at an election meeting Monday night a letter from a United States automobile firm refusing a Communist Chinese order addressed to its Canadian subsidiary.

Mr. Broome said the letter was a photostatic copy of one sent by the U.S. head office of the Ford Motor Company to East-West Import-Export Limited, a Vancouver firm which promotes Canadian trade in the Far East.

Mr. Broome said the letter was dated Feb. 12, 1957, and this date was important since Liberal Leader Pearson said last month he is disturbed that the U.S. government is moving to prevent such sales and that the Canadian government should protest its action.

This particular sale was prevented at a time when Mr. Pearson was external affairs minister, Mr. Broome said. "This is just another indication of the subservient attitude taken by the Liberals in their dealings with the U.S. government."

He said the Progressive Conservative government is opening up trade with Communist China and formal recognition is "just a matter of time."

The letter was first made public in Windsor, Ont., last week by Canadian director George

ERNE BROOME

Burt of the United Auto Workers union. Mr. Broome said it quoted U.S. state department embargo regulations on Red Chinese trade and said these applied to Canadian subsidiaries.

In Ottawa Saturday a government trade official said the government had not been involved in the reported deal.

M. W. Sharpe, deputy minister of trade and commerce, said no application for export permits for cars had been received. He said the federal government would probably grant a permit if approached.

Guerrilla War Mapped by Rebels To Halt Gov't Army in Sumatra

MEDAN, Sumatra (AP) — Government troops fanning out from this north Sumatra town appear to have checked the spread of Indonesia's civil war in north Sumatra. The rebels threaten to counterattack, but they face a rough road back to Medan.

Their initial advantage lost, the insurgents' best hope now seems to be to extend guerrilla action which could tie up Jakarta forces in a long costly action.

2,000 Tickets Sold On Kinsmen Bingo

More than 2,000 tickets in two days have been sold for the ninth Victoria Kinsmen bingo game at Memorial Arena, April 14, bingo chairman Jack Philion said today.

Tickets are on sale at Eaton's. A list of $10,000 in prizes is headed by a $3,200 new car, the fifteenth to be given away by the Kinsmen.

Those are the conclusions reached after a four-day trip—by bus, car, speedboat and foot—from the rebel capital of Bukittinggi back and forth across "battle" lines three times.

Both sides apparently have been disappointed by developments in Medan, which went over to the rebels nine days ago after the town garrison mutinied, then was recaptured by the loyalists.

The outbreak in Medan cost Jakarta money, time and troops which could have been used to invade rebel hotbeds in central Sumatra. Many of the loyalists are still tied up at Medan.

For the rebels, any civil war was better than none, but they had hoped to take over all north Sumatra.

As the situation now stands, the front lines extend beyond the resort town of Prapat on Lake Toba south of Medan. The loyalists took over that rebel stronghold last week and moved in with artillery.

Rebel informants said the leader of the Medan mutiny, Maj. Boyke Nainn Golan, had headed for the hills southeast of here with remnants of his force.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Skier Survives Day, Night In Cold, Rain on Mountain

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER (CP) — A resourceful German-born skier, clad only in a thin shirt, trousers and ski boots, survived a day and a night on chilly Mount Seymour, across Burrard Inlet from here.

Eric Krueger, 28, was spotted just before nightfall Monday by Jack Atkinson and Hugh Schmidberger. They constituted one of three parties which had been looking for Krueger.

The skier was taken down the mountain to North Vancouver General Hospital, and said he felt fine except for being cold and hungry.

A young Scottish hiker died on the 4,000-foot mountain northeast of here last year when he became lost.

Krueger was missing for 28 hours. He said he "tumbled beside a fire Sunday night after failing to rendezvous with two ski companions, and walked in circles from noon Monday."

He said he was following a well-established ski trail Sunday when it faded to a single ski mark. He lost his glasses as he swept farther down the slope and became lost.

Krueger said, "I knew then that I might not get out until the next day. So instead of getting too tired I concentrated on finding firewood."

He found dry wood at the foot of a bluff, settled down beside a roaring fire hoping it would attract rescuers.

About 3 a.m. it began to rain. He had not eaten since noon Sunday and had only five cigarettes left. Still with his skis, he hiked downhill in the snow Monday morning.

WORKER KILLED
BURNABY — A Vancouver workman was killed when run over by an overhead crane at the Dominion Bridge Co. premises here Monday.

ROMP said Stefano Castaro,

Mr. Castaro was an employee of Westeel Products.

FERRY SERVICE SET

VANCOUVER—The head of Northland Navigation Limited said Monday night the company will take over the passenger-freight run to central coast points "with or without government subsidies."

Union Steamships Limited abandoned the coast run last January.

Captain H. J. Terry, president

of Northland, said: "We are going into it with or without government subsidies. Ottawa asked us some time ago if we would be interested. We were, but we haven't heard from them since."

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

KELOWNA — Mrs. Marion Pearce, 44, of Kelowna, is slated to be tried on attempted murder charge at spring assizes at Vernon next month.

She is charged in the shooting of her 21-year-old son with a .22-calibre rifle following an argument in their East Kelowna cabin last September.

The youth has since recovered.

A step to the stars!...

The roaring blast that propels it skyward burns, pits and fuses the metal exhaust... at top speed, air friction heats the special alloy of its outer skin to a cherry-red. It travels at thousands of miles per hour to a pre-determined target, accurately guided by its electronic pilot. It's a strategic military weapon... and much, much more. The guided missile is actually a step to the stars. To withstand the high temperature, acceleration and shock encountered in such flights, scientists have had to develop instruments and controls employing new and unusual materials; for example, very high purity metals.

Cominco supplies industry throughout the world with INDIUM, refined to a purity of 99.999%—a valuable metal in electronics. It also makes other super pure metals... ZINC, 99.9995%... LEAD and BISMUTH, 99.9998%—CADMIUM and SILVER, 99.9999%. Metals, with purities considered impossible just a few short years ago, are becoming increasingly important today... We are proud of the contribution our research has made in the field of ultra high purity metals. Metals from Cominco will help carry Man to the stars... at the same time, today in different form, they are bringing new comfort and convenience to every day living.

Fire Destroys Doukhobors' Hilliers Hall

HILLIERS — Fire Monday destroyed the Doukhobor communal hall here and a sect spokesman charged it was deliberately set.

RCMP would not comment on the charge other than to say: "We are investigating every possibility."

The fire started upstairs where until last week a family of four Doukhobors lived. Most of their personal belongings were lost in the flames.

The hall was built 11 years ago by sect members.

A member of the Russian religious group said the fire brigade had been telephoned but failed to show up. He added that when RCMP arrived they said the fire brigade would not attend as it was out of their area.

"We set about to beat out the flames, but we didn't have any fire fighting equipment."

He said that although many people stood around watching no one offered to help in any way.

"I believe," he said, "that someone who is against our way of life set the fire deliberately."

Lakes Park Plan Given Committee

A general plan for the development of Beaver-Elk Lake Park was submitted to Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee Monday by city engineer J. C. Garnett.

The scheme would be bolstered in its initial stages by expenditure of $50,000 in Greater Victoria pooled centennial funds, but would depend on further municipal contributions in later years.

A special sub-committee including Ald. M. H. Mooney as chairman, Coun. George Chatterton, engineers Garnett and Neville Life (Saanich), and Victoria parks administrators, was named to recommend best use of the centennial money.

Ald. Mooney, Coun. Chatterton and Coun. Charles Nelles were named as a committee to organize volunteer labor.

The development scheme emphasizes a need for park and beach development at areas farthest from the highway. Beaver Lake and Happyland were indicated as best areas for improvement.

The plan calls for eventual construction of trails around the lakes and development of a parking area west of Beaver Lake.

Cruel Clown Tells Woman Her Son Taken to Hospital

A Victoria woman spent some anxious moments Monday believing her son had been taken to hospital while she was at work.

Mrs. F. T. Fraser, 418 Powell, was called by a man who said: "You don't know me but I'm in your neighborhood and was asked to phone and tell you your little boy has just gone to hospital in an ambulance."

The woman tried to call home and found the line busy, but at last got through to find her boy was safe at home.

Police were told of the incident, culmination of a week-long series of "mistakes."

Twice a tow truck has arrived at the Fraser home to take away their car; a 28-pound turkey was delivered Saturday, and Sunday a quantity of Chinese food arrived — all unordered.

Funeral services were scheduled in Duncan this afternoon for Mrs. Hannah Wilson, who died here last week in her 80th year.

Born in London, England, Mrs. Wilson trained at the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, and was school nurse for a number of years in Ontario. Following marriage to the late Arthur L. Wilson, she lived in Big Valley, Alta., moving to Duncan in 1936.

For the past five years Mrs. Wilson had lived in Victoria.

Annexation, in Effect, Inherent In Two-Power World, Group Told

Canada will cease to exist if United States security is ever threatened by the separate existence of Canada, a Victoria group was told Monday by Royal Roads history professor C. E. Burchill.

The controversial speaker addressed about 100 members of the English-Speaking Union on the subject, "Some Aspects of Canadian Foreign Policy," in Douglas Building Cafeteria.

He said no other course would be open to the U.S. and the U.S. government would betray its own people unless it, in effect, annexed Canada.

Last year Prof. Burchill made a proposal to have a federal district courts system set up in Canada.

He said provincial attorneys-general are often placed in untenable positions in prosecuting some cases because of their judicial and political positions.

Prof. Burchill backed his statement by a principle laid down recently by "a noted Canadian journalist," and which is "followed consistently by our department of external affairs."

"The first essential interest of Canada in the world today is the security of the United States; that takes overwhelming priority over everything else in Canada's external relations."

He said the policy will "continue to be followed after this election no matter what party is in power. It is a principle with which I am sure you will not agree."

Minds Poisoned by Anti-U.S. Bias?

The speaker quoted the excerpt then asked: "Does that statement shock you? Is your mind poisoned by anti-American bias?"

"I am sure that Mr. Sidney Smith finds the statement equally unpalatable, and that Mr. Lester Pearson did not like it any better."

"But it is inescapably true, inherent in the logic of a two-power world, and if we don't like it we can jolly well lump it."

He said that as early as 1940 arrangement was made for Canadian forces to pass automatically under U.S. command in case the continent was threatened.

His listeners accepted the statement without protest, but president of the group deputy education minister Dr. H. L. Campbell, sought assurance during a question period which followed.

Dr. Campbell asked if the speaker thought "there was ever a time in the history of Canada-U.S. relations as today when as great a number of the American people were... well disposed to give Canada, a weaker and smaller nation, every consideration?"

Prof. Burchill agreed there was "no time like the present," pointing out that American foreign policy has been "more predatory," such as in the Spanish-American war.

"That was when the U.S. didn't have to worry about world opinion. Now they do," the speaker said.

Adding to his initial statement, Prof. Burchill said voters who think Canadian interests are the prime consideration of Canadian foreign policy are often puzzled.

"Politicians in opposition have often been sincerely critical of Canadian policy on these grounds. Politicians in power have learned better, even if their public utterances do not always convey that impression," he said.

Bitter Lesson in First World War

The second most important principle of Canadian foreign policy as defined by the speaker is that external policy should not destroy Canadian unity, a lesson "learned bitterly, almost tragically in World War I. We fought that war with outmoded slogans, as a war to save the British Empire."

A third principle of policy is to substitute judicial or quasi-judicial methods in place of military or economic pressures to settle international problems. This is an older principle than the department of external affairs, which seeks to apply it, he said.

It grew from the Alaska boundary dispute, solution of which was by arbitration and caused much criticism in Canada of both Great Britain and the United States.

Even weak law is better than no law at all, he said.

"Read your paper tomorrow and check every headline, every news story, every political report that reveals an anti-American bias and you will be startled at the total you find in a single issue."

RAF Planes Keep Clear — Macmillan

LONDON (UP)—The Royal Air Force takes strict precautions to ensure its planes do not cross the iron curtain inadvertently, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said today.

Answering a question from Laborite Arthur Henderson in the House of Commons, Macmillan said he agreed that if any planes carrying nuclear weapons crossed the curtain, even accidentally, it would be a "dangerous provocation."

"I assure you that precautions are taken to prevent any inadvertent infringement," he said.

Henderson had asked Macmillan for an assurance that British based atom-bombers would not fly over European countries adjacent to those which are members of the Communist-sponsored Warsaw Pact.

Henderson's question was prompted by an article in an Oxford University student magazine last week which claimed that British planes made flights over the iron curtain in deliberate provocation of the Russians, in order to test the Communist defences.

It's always bon voyage when you let the CNR help plan your trip

"Our diplomats," he said, "must wrestle as best they can with a situation which permits the United States to wreck our foreign markets by dumping her surplus agricultural products... sell Canadian natural gas at lower prices to consumers in the U.S. than in Canada... encourages the U.S. to bar Canadian cattle or potatoes or petroleum from U.S. markets whenever some pressure group... complains of Canadian competition, or to forbid Canadian factories to fill orders in China because the U.S. government disapproves of trade with China."

Chief problem there was "persistent provincial jealousy of federal powers."

A fourth principle of Canadian policy is striving by diplomats through NATO, GATT, the UN, the Commonwealth, to increase scope of international law.

Even weak law is better than no law at all, he said.

"Read your paper tomorrow and check every headline, every news story, every political report that reveals an anti-American bias and you will be startled at the total you find in a single issue."

B.C. Politicians Covering Big Campaign Area

Premier Bennett rode into B.C. north country Monday to kick off Social Credit's final week election campaign drive.

An estimated 1,100 persons, one of the largest political rallies ever in Cariboo riding, turned out in Prince George to hear him flay the old-line parties.

"In the old-line parties the whip—not democratic freedom—works for you," Mr. Bennett declared.

"You have heard me say that you should give Diefenbaker a chance," he said, "but I have analyzed this remark and behind the 'dynamic' program which he purports to follow there is not a stick of reality."

"He's not using the footprints as a campaign gimmick this election because they all lead to the employment office."

Mr. Bennett said B.C. is not getting a fair share of the revenue collected from residents of this province under federal taxation schemes.

During the question period of the meeting, the premier appealed to British Columbians not to pass judgment in the Sommers case until both sides have been heard.

Mr. Bennett told his audience former forests minister Robert Sommers, now facing trial on a bribery-conspiracy charge, had not received "any preferential treatment" from the government and could expect "neither fear nor favor."

Mr. Sommers' successor in the lands and forests portfolio, Ray Williston, also urged the audience to withhold judgment in the case.

"So far he (Sommers) has not said one word in his defence," Mr. Williston said. "We have only heard one side."

"If his trial shows any irregularities they will be looked into."

The premier and Mr. Williston spoke in support of Cariboo Social Credit candidate Bert Leboe, one of six B.C. Socialists in the last Commons.

Tonight the premier will continue his campaign at Kamloops.

Adverse balances against Canada built up by the Liberals in trade with the U.S. will not be continued by Conservatives, A. DeB. McPhillips told an election meeting at White Eagle Hall.

Liberals and Conservatives are both trying to win votes by "bribes," Victoria Social Credit candidate Elmer McEwen said Monday night.

"The Conservatives have promised half the country and the Liberals have promised the other half," Mr. McEwen said at a meeting at Norway House.

Recent attacks on each other by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the Liberal leader, Lester Pearson show the weakness of the two parties, he said.

Works Minister Howard Green said Monday night the Progressive Conservative government hopes to cut taxes further if re-elected, but "I don't know whether it will be possible or not."

Bread and Butter

MR. ELLIS, THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE in Victoria, has rightly been emphasizing the importance of a greater foreign trade to Canada in general and this community in particular. For British Columbia lives mainly on exports and their earnings, directly or indirectly, nourish our province and our city.

We know that with special clarity at the moment when some of our exports, from forest and mine, have been falling. The great industry and the smallest corner grocery, the big city and the remote hamlet, all feel the results.

It is nevertheless true that the nation's trade as a whole maintained a high level up to very recent times. The figures for 1957 as a whole flatly deny Mr. Diefenbaker's repeated statement that the former Liberal Government lost many of our foreign markets "all over the world," for our total trade last year stood at $10 billion as against $8.5 in 1953, and a fraction of that when the Liberal Government came to office in 1935.

But it is not enough for our prosperity in British Columbia that trade as a whole should be massive. So long as there is a recession in some of our own vital industries our economy declines, despite the total national figures.

Moreover, our productive apparatus in the exporting industries here has been greatly expanded during recent years. We must sell far more than ever to keep that apparatus active. Even to maintain our 1957 rate of exports will not be enough for a province which has been building new mills, paper plants and other industries very rapidly, too rapidly, indeed, for the existing market.

Hence, apart from the maintenance of peace, no question is so vital for British Columbia and Victoria in this election as the development of larger markets. Here, as Mr. Ellis says, a clear issue emerges between the Conservative Government and the Liberal Opposition, a respectable issue on which honest men may differ.

The Conservative Government proposes, like the Opposition, to expand trade in principle but in practice it is moving, first, to restrict imports by higher tariffs which obviously are being postponed only until after the election but are already under the study of the Tariff Board, and, secondly, to divert 15 per cent of our trade from the American market to the Commonwealth while, at the same time, preparing to curb the importation of such important Commonwealth goods as textiles and footwear.

In the end, the restriction of imports must result, and always has resulted, in the restriction of exports. For our customers cannot buy from us unless they earn Canadian dollars in our market.

To say that trade is a two-way street is, of course, a well-worn cliché but it happens to be true. And it was never more important than it is today when the Canadian recession is caused mainly by the difficulties of a few exporting industries, especially in British Columbia.

The Liberal policy, as advocated by Mr. Pearson and candidates like Mr. Ellis who are supporting him, is set flatly against any attempt merely to divert trade. It recognizes that the American market is absolutely essential to us, that other markets, though of great importance, are no substitute for the largest market in the world where we sell most of our exports today.

Instead of diversion, the Liberal Party proposes a general expansion of trade and, to this end, is willing to negotiate for an entirely new free trade agreement with Britain—a project proposed by the British Government and hastily rejected by the Diefenbaker Government.

The Liberal Party, in opposition as in office, denies the theory that we can prosper by restricting imports and hence, inevitably, exports. It does not stand and has never stood for the impossible theory of free trade, it realizes that our economy has been built on a substantial measure of protection but its emphasis has always been on minimum protection and maximum trade.

The result of that emphasis, through two decades of Liberal Government, was to make Canada the fourth trading nation of the world.

Here, then, is an issue much bigger than any individual candidate, much more important than the fortunes of any political party. It is the overriding, bread-and-butter issue of the election in British Columbia. The voter (who lives mainly on trade whether he knows it or not) will be wise to consider this issue next Monday.

They Need Food

MRS. ALICE HARPER HAS CUT through discussions of a nation's and a world's troubles to bring Greater Victoria face to face with acute distress right here.

Mrs. Harper runs the free food stall. Unless she receives help in the next few days, there will not be enough food to feed the hungry—our hungry, citizens of Victoria who require help. Mrs. Harper asks for that help now.

There are old people who need food. There are families in which care of a handicapped person makes it all but impossible for the household to support itself. They need food. There are homes in Victoria where children are not getting enough to eat. They, too, need food.

They will do without or will exist on short rations unless Mrs. Harper's plea is answered. It will be answered if our people send to her food or the funds with which to buy it.

A simple question is presented to Victorians today: Will there be food at the stall on Saturday?

Apart From Sputniks

SOME SOUND ADVICE HAS come from educators gathered recently in the United States for the 13th annual conference of the Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development.

Outstanding personalities at that meeting expressed appreciation for the interest created in education by sputniks. At the same time they were not prepared to see educational practice and theory depart into outer space.

The educators seemed to be cautioning the public to avoid concentrating its gaze so closely on rockets that it misses the broader picture.

In general substance, the advice could be applied to Canada as well as to the United States.

"Let us remember," said Dr. C. C. Trillingham, superintendent of schools for Los Angeles County, "that the educational system which is criticized today is the same one from which came the people who built the first atomic bomb, who flew the first airplane, who launched the first atomic-powered submarine, who led the world in thermonuclear experiments, who developed mass production of automobiles, bathtubs, telephones, and television sets. And we have done these things along with all of our military development without sacrificing our standards of living."

The American spokesmen do not discount sputniks. They do not toss aside certain Russian developments in education.

In fact they are highly impressed by the Soviet establishment of the smaller classroom unit—the Russian standard is understood to be 17 students per teacher.

But the conference emphasizes that education covers a broader field than instruments of space travel.

Much as it may need amendment, the existing system, the authorities point out, has not been a failure. Their plea is for balanced judgment.

Not in Good Enough Condition

THERE APPEARS TO BE SOMETHING cryptic in the remark of Lt.-Col. Thomas De Faye regarding amenities for unmarried Canadian soldiers serving with NATO in Germany.

Athletic facilities are excellent, he says, "but you don't want to take a member of the track team to a dance."

If there is any lack of clarity in the statement, it is only superficial. Obviously "you don't want to take a member of the track team to a dance." No member of a track team is in good enough shape to stand up to the rigors of the modern dance.

That's a Joke, Son

AFTER I had remarked here that the national election campaign was even wilder and more irrelevant than usual, an eminent Canadian figure rang me up to say, with regret, that I was becoming one of those Angry Young Men you read about in the British papers. The first adjective is misleading; I am not angry, just bewildered. The second is too flattering altogether; I ceased to be young about six elections ago. I am just bewildered, old and filled with amusement to the point of hysterics.

Two recent jokes, one Conservative, the other Liberal, give me special pleasure. (You will pardon the mention of these light and giddy affairs in a space usually devoted to stern facts and eternal verities.)

MR. DIEFENBAKER, a man seldom given to jokes in public, has been saying in every speech that the business recession began at least a year ago and was caused exclusively by Mr. James Coyne's tight money, not by anything else. He says Canada was "on the slide" long before the Conservative Government came to power and stopped this terrifying downward momentum.

But before he revealed this discovery to the electors throughout the land Mr. Diefenbaker wrote an article on Canada for The Financial Times of London, England. In this article, published on February 24, he noted that Canada had enjoyed in recent years "a surge of expansion and major additions of new capacity in raw material production industries." Then he added an astounding admission: "With the expansion still at its height, international commodity markets turned decidedly softer in 1957, in part owing to a levelling off of demand, in part, because of expanding world capacities." Hence the recession.

THAT precisely is what Mr. Coyne has been saying all along. He might have written Mr. Diefenbaker's article in The Financial Times. Hence the latest joke of the campaign—the Prime Minister saying in Canada that Mr. Coyne and tight money produced the recession a year ago; and in England saying that the recession was caused, much later, by a fall in foreign markets.

Which Mr. Diefenbaker are we to believe, the serious economist and journalist in Britain or the election campaigner in Canada? There is no use getting angry about a thing like that. A wise man will only smile.

HE will smile also at some of the recent Liberal advertising. It declares solemnly that Mr. Pearson's tax reduction policy would quickly cure the recession and put everybody back to work. One's smile, at this point, is likely to be a trifle wan, as Mr. Pearson's must be, if he ever reads the party advertising, which I doubt. But let us smile just the same. There is no use crying over spilt promises.

Now, of course, Mr. Pearson never said he could cure the recession by manipulating the national budget. All he says is that a tax reduction would help, as a stimulant and nothing more, and that nothing else, like public works, would help nearly so much or so quickly. But he knows (as Mr. Diefenbaker knows when writing in London where the Canadian voters won't read it) that a recession caused by the world market will be cured there and nowhere else.

THE advertising boys, however, are not content with these dull facts. They take a peripheral policy of stimulant and exaggerate it into a panacea.

And to complete this round of merryment Mr. Diefenbaker announces that the recession is practically over, or soon will be if he is re-elected, though at this very moment, in the United States (where the recession mainly comes from) the American Government is getting more alarmed every day and probably will be compelled to follow the same policy proposed here by Mr. Pearson.

Well, the laughter will soon be finished. The humorous dialogue will close next weekend and on April 1 (an odd date) we shall have to get down to the facts at last, the main fact being that the North American economy is distorted and, one way or another, will have to readjust itself to reality.

SINCE we built our productive apparatus far beyond our available markets, raised our prices far beyond our customers' means and enjoyed the spree which Mr. Coyne tried vainly to curb, the process of readjustment is not likely to be painless or brief.

Things may well improve before the year's end but, as one of the nation's greatest businessmen told me in Vancouver the other day, we can hardly digest the binge altogether under a couple of years. This will be dull work and after next Monday we shall miss the broad, innocent, hearty humor of an election campaign. What shall we do then for a good laugh?

It's a curious business, this waterfall watching—positively hypnotic, because however much the detail changes, the main effect is the same. I once asked a fellow watcher what he thought about it. He said: "Well, a waterfall in flood is one of the few things you can't do anything about, and nobody expects you to. Things you aren't expected to do something about are very rare these days."

Shin Plasters

To D.B. who in the "Ask the Times" corner, asked what "shin plasters were worth." The answer you got D.B. was not exactly correct, and I would advise you to keep all the "shin plasters" you can get your hands on.

Ten years ago I saw a few in a Winnipeg store window, they were for sale at $6 each. So it is not a case of the actual value, it is what you can get for them.

"OBSERVER."

Hot Wires

I note the Labor Council stated it will support the electricians in their strike, and this is a little puzzling to me because, as I understand it, labor ethics strictly prohibit a good unionist from buying goods or services produced by "unfair" labor.

As the B.C. Electric now falls in the latter category, I would expect that all good unionists will immediately cut off their light connection, refrigerator, TV, etc., refrain from riding on the buses, and insist that their employers also shut down their machinery using electricity produced by "unfair" labor. But then, of course, labor unions seem to make up the rules as they go along.

Stay Put

Re your article March 17 a special police force of 10 men to assist RCMP in evacuation plans from Victoria.

It might sound simple to some people, but to any old soldier of battle experience it sounds silly. It would be a waste of time to even try to evacuate 60,000 persons through Sidney area or even to try and take care of them there.

The present ferry service could not cope with the 9,000 to be taken to the Gulf Islands. As for the other 51,000 getting shelter in this area, where would you put them? In the open fields?

The enemy would of course attack in nice dry weather and give at least six months notice of intention. Even if you did manage to get your 60,000 to this area, where are your stocks of food and water? Most of our water is pumped through half-inch pipe by small electric pumps. The enemy would oblige by not dropping a bomb near the power house. Where are you going to cook food for 60,000? With Victoria out of commission who would feed us?

How many days, not hours or minutes, would it take to transport 60,000 people to the Sidney area, even without planes flying overhead machine-gunning the refugees like they did in France?

Have you ever tried to get out to the Saanich Fair when we get 10,000 to attend in peacetime? Have you read the English papers lately and learned that many towns and cities have given up the idea of trying to evacuate?

I think the best chance for the people is to stay put in their homes. No enemy commander is going to destroy his jumping-off place to the mainland.

Protect the Injured

In view of a recent accident, where the injured person was just prevented in time from being lifted from the wet pavement by well-meaning passersby, I wonder if there is not some way that the warning could be widely publicized against lifting injured persons until experienced ambulance workers arrive, for fear of internal organs being pierced by broken bones through inexperienced handling.

No 'Closed Shop'

I appreciate the efforts of your newspaper to present fairly all sides of the current salary differences between teacher associations and school boards but may I be granted space in an effort to clarify one or two points.

Teachers do not have a "closed shop." In the closed shop situation no worker may be employed until and unless he has first been admitted into the union. The union has complete discretion as to whether or not to admit him. What the teachers have is "automatic" membership. A teacher does not become a member of the B.C. Teachers' Federation until he has been certificated by the Department of Education and employed by a public school board. The BCTF must then automatically accept him as a member and he must become a member. In fact the BCTF had to prove to the government which agreed to automatic membership that it was not seeking the "closed shop."

Automatic membership was granted to the teachers so that they could enforce their own Code of Ethics just as the other professions accept responsibility for maintaining high standards of professional conduct on the part of their members.

As an organization the BCTF must be concerned with salaries of teachers. Teachers must bargain with their employers, the school boards. Teachers can't fix their own fees as do the other professions. Inevitably, therefore, the BCTF has a trade union function. There is, however, a purely professional side to its work which is equally if not more concerned. Automatic membership was granted to strengthen this professional aspect.

That there is no relationship whatsoever between automatic membership and strong tactics in salary disputes is evidenced in Alberta where the teachers come under the Labor Act and at the same time enjoy an even stronger form of automatic membership. In Ontario the secondary school teachers who initiated the closed district tactic also have automatic membership.

Automatic membership in the provincial teachers' association exists in every province in Canada except Newfoundland.

Unfortunately for the teachers, the real issues behind the current controversy have been completely lost sight of in the battle over tactics. School boards in the districts which have been closed have refused point blank to negotiate in good faith with their teachers and have instead "fixed" salaries in their sole discretion. What would be the reaction of the medical profession should the hospital boards announce to them that this is the fee structure they will operate under in the hospitals of this province this year?

The use of such emotionally-toned words as "closed shop" and "black list" in relation to the teachers' struggle for fair treatment is misleading.

C. D. OVANS.

The Figures Talk

FOR the first time since the end of the Second World War, the American consumer has quite sharply cut his purchases of goods and services. Incredible as it may seem, the dollar volume of American consumer buying continuously increased, with minor fluctuations in the rate, for a period of almost exactly twelve years.

Even the previous mild recessions did not really halt the voracious advance. They merely levelled out the upward curve for a while. This is the remarkable background against which to judge as yet unpublished government figures which are creating something of a stir among the Eisenhower administration's economic policy makers. In brief, the rate of American consumer expenditure reached an all-time high of $283.6 billion per annum during the third quarter of last year.

In the last quarter of 1957, however, the rate of consumer spending showed the first unprecedented positive downturn of $1.2 billion. It is further estimated that the drop has continued and even accelerated in the first quarter of 1958. The consumer spending rate, has probably gone down by another $2 billion during these three months.

Large Outlays

With the annual rate of spending now running at about $280 billion, the outlays for American consumers' comfort, nourishment and pleasure are still far more than double the total income of the Soviet Union, the next most productive nation in the world.

Furthermore, American purchases of soft goods have not decreased. Virtually the whole drop in the spending-rate is accounted for by contracting purchases of such consumers' durable goods as automobiles. But the figures are still causing long faces among the policy makers, because this is classed as a durable goods depression, and because of the further drop in durable goods spending in the first quarter of the present year.

The consumer purchasing figures are only one part of a bale of decidedly depressing statistics on the recession-depression that are now being studied at the highest Administration level, in the White House itself.

Other items in the bale concern what are called "real spendable earnings" of employed factory workers. In addition to the sharply rising industrial unemployment, there has been a sharp reduction in the working hours of the men and women who still have jobs.

According to a Labor Department estimate, average time on the job in the nation's factories has now gone down from 41 hours a week (which meant one hour of overtime pay in many factories) to 38 hours a week.

The resulting cut in weekly pay has cancelled out the whole continuous rise in factory workers' "real spendable earnings" that took place in the last three years.

After adjustments for changes in the postwar price index and for taxes, the estimated rate of "real spendable earnings" passed $65 a week in 1957. But it has now dropped by nearly 8 per cent, to a few cents more than $59 a week—which was the rate at the end of 1954.

No Improvement

Also in the same statistical bale, are figures confirming the forecasts that have already appeared, that President Eisenhower is due to be sadly disappointed in hopes for a substantially better March employment picture.

The Census Bureau based its estimate of 5.2 million unemployed in February on a study of the week ending Feb. 15. In that week, 25,000 persons were added to the rolls of those receiving unemployment insurance payments, and the total on the rolls for the week was 3,131,000—the rest of the Census Bureau estimate being accounted for by people wanting jobs but having no insurance.

Since this key week in February, new applications for unemployment insurance have risen sharply and then dropped again; while the total number of recipients of unemployment insurance has gone up less steeply and dropped less importantly.

Somewhat Higher

For the week ending March 15, new applications for insurance are already known to have numbered 410,500, and the total on the rolls is guessed to be about 3,330,000, pending final figures coming in. According to Labor Department authorities, this will give a March unemployment total no different from the February total or perhaps a bit higher.

In other words, the facts that the President decided he wanted to wait and see, when he put off the decision on a tax cut, are now all on the presidential desk and only too bleakly visible. Nothing is lacking but the Census Bureau's belated confirmation of the March unemployment total. The question remains why the wait-and-see mood still prevails in the Administration high command.

How Much Do They Want It?

IF you happened to spend Saturday at the Crystal Garden, where the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club was sponsoring British Columbia swimming and diving championships, you'd have been impressed by the youth of the contestants.

There were a few elderly performers around—people 18 years old and more—but mainly the competitors were kids.

My eye was taken by little Mary Stewart of Vancouver. Mary is a veteran of about 12. They tell me she's a crackjack acrobat and mascot for the B.C. Lions.

Stott

Peeled down to a speed suit, white swim cap and nose clip, she's about as big as a short minute. When she stands by a one-metre springboard, only the top quarter of her is above it.

She stood by it and on it Saturday morning, the lone entry in the girls' 12 and under diving contest, and went through her routine to win the title.

Then, later, she started swimming and showed the stuff that makes a competitor. She won her age class 50 yards backstroke, repeated in the 50 yards butterfly and then boomed out in front to help her team win the 11 and 12-year-old girls' freestyle relay.

By Saturday night, at the end of a long day, she must have been a tired little miss, with a pocketful of medals. She looked about as pale as her white swim hat, but she'd looked that way in the morning.

WILL TO WIN

Mary Stewart from Vancouver was the outstanding performer of her age in the meet. Still there were lots as young and younger who were just as keen.

They went into races wanting to win—wanting to win so much it almost hurt. And that's one of the characteristics that make a competitor.

Just wanting, of course, isn't enough. The champion has to have certain physical capacities, strength, rhythm, co-ordination, a good heart. And the champion has to be coached to get the most out of the available physical equipment. The champion also must train, keep in condition, "peak" for meets and know how to spend all the stored energy

Diverticulitis

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Hundreds of people keep writing me in great alarm because someone recently told them that all their troubles were due to diverticulitis. The doctor put the patient on a strict diet, and said that disaster might follow. Almost always in these cases, as I read about the patient's symptoms or lack of symptoms, or I read the report of the X-ray man, my impression is strong that all the person has is a diverticulosis—in other words, he has, scattered along the wall of his colon a number of little pouches about as big as peas. These are found in so many persons past 40 or 50 that they are largely signs of aging—like grey hair. After 40 years of talking to these people, my impression is that the little pouches are usually no worse than grey hair. I doubt very much if they produce any symptoms. Certainly, I have known hundreds of persons who had dozens of diverticula and no symptoms from them. My old friend, Dr. H. E. Robertson, one of the great pathologists at Mayo's, used to keep pointing out to me that not once in a thousand cases at autopsy did he see any sign of inflammation in or around a diverticulum.

Diverticulitis means an inflammation in or around one or more diverticula, and in my experience this is a rare happening. Usually, the patient knows it when he has such an inflammation. He has pain and tenderness and fever and a sausage-like mass in the left lower quadrant of the abdomen. Sometimes a surgeon has to operate to remove the inflamed and infected segment of bowel.

What is bad is that so often today we physicians manage to leave our patient confused and all mixed up, thinking he has a serious diverticulitis when all he has is a harmless diverticulosis. We did not make this clear enough.

Actually, when I see many diverticula on the walls of the large bowel of a man of 60 or so, I hate to even mention them to him because all I am likely to do is to get the fellow alarmed over nothing. I certainly would never think of putting the man on a diet. In those rare cases in which there are so many diverticula on a short segment of bowel that there is spasm in this segment and perhaps some cramps, I advise the taking each day of an enema of warm water with a tablespoon of salt to the bag of warm in him or her over the given distance.

But wanting to win can be the important factor.

I could be wrong, but it seems to me that one of the reasons Canadians haven't been winning so many laurels in international competition in recent years is that the athletes don't want to win badly enough.

Oh, sure. They'd like to win, but not sufficiently to put everything into the job of making themselves top-notch. They want to be star athletes, but not enough to let the disciplines required of the athlete stop them from enjoying their social lives.

On the basis of present day specialization, the champion generally has to make his event the be-all and the end-all of that stage of his living. He has to make sacrifices here, and sacrifices there. There has to be a singleness of purpose that pays off in excellence.

DILETTANTES

Too often, I think, our kids are dilettantes. They play around with their goals—several at the same time.

Maybe they're better personalities as a result—but I think there's a lot of conjecture in that "maybe." They become good in a sport, only not as good as some other people who give the game everything all the time. They're not so hungry for the laurel that they'll do without something else.

When they are hungry enough—as a couple of UBC crews have been in recent years—they still make the grade. And in the process they learn a lot about discipline. That may be the most useful quality they can draw from sport.

I like to think that little Mary Stewart showed it, and that other winners on Saturday had the same capacity to forego some of the minor pleasures in order to succeed.

I have the feeling the point will be made, for those people who see the special showing of the Olympic film on view at the Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion auditorium on Wednesday evening at 8.

The film, the official screen version of the Melbourne Games, ought to be worth seeing apart from pointing up the characteristic which I think makes a champion. And anyone who pays the nominal admission to it will be helping Canada finance its Empire Games team to Cardiff this summer.

It seems to represent a good show for a worthy cause.

water. This can keep the segment fairly clean, and this may help.

FEELING OF A HOUSE

A while ago, as I was listening to the radio, there came over the air the voice of Mario Lanza singing, "You Can Tell When There Is Love in a Home."

And it made me think of what the Chinese call the spirits of a house, which are good or evil depending on the sort of life the former tenants lived. The Chinese say that if one is a sensitive person, one can feel uncomfortable because of evil spirits left behind by a couple who, daily for years, snarled at each other with their hearts full of dislike and hate.

Or, perhaps as one goes into a house, one feels a sense of peace and comfort, and one says, "Here I could abide very happily." Why? Because, for years two people lived here, always loving each other, always working hand in hand in a good cause. Perhaps in the evenings, they often read together selections of poetry and prose written by the great masters of literature.

Some time ago, while in Mexico, I was taken through an interesting old house built originally by one of the grandes of Spain who followed Cortes to the New World. What with its massive stone walls and its very few windows, it seemed to me very forbidding. Worse than that, soon after entering the place, I felt a sense of oppression and discomfort; and I said to the people with me, "I wouldn't stay a night in this house if I were paid to do it; I would expect to be murdered in my sleep." "That is curious," said the guide. "That is exactly what happened here one night. Right in that bed there, the wealthy woman who once owned the place was killed by one of her servants when she refused to hand over to him her money."

A couple of years ago I read a fine article on this subject of the spirits of a house written by Dave Garroby. Speaking of a house from which he had just moved, he said, "People must inevitably leave behind something of themselves everywhere they live, something besides the mere residue of dust, bent paper clips, and fallen coat hangers. I am sure that the new tenants couldn't help but sense that they are inheriting a legacy within the walls: a musty, pervasive yet subtle spore of a previous resident..."

Wouldn't it be wonderful if most of us could live so happily in a house that the people who took it over after we left could feel comfortable, and could sense some of the happiness that had been ours?

U.K. Liberals Out for Seat

LONDON (CP)—Britain's Liberal party, happily trading on the recent upturn in its electoral fortunes, stands at the crossroads this week.

For the first time since the start of their much-publicized electoral revival, the Liberals are fighting a by-election Thursday in which second place will not be good enough.

They go into Thursday's contest in the Devonshire constituency of Torrington with a number of factors in their favor. These include a strong candidate, powerful election issues, an established Liberal tradition in the area and a political tide that has been running strongly against the Conservative government.

In addition, the three-cornered contest finds both major parties at a disadvantage. Labor has never been strong in the constituency; finishing a distant third the last time the Liberals contested the seat in 1950. And the government candidacy is in the hands of a man who wears the awkward label of National Liberal and Conservative.

This multisyllabic party designation dates from 1951, when the Conservatives took advantage of Liberal disintegration throughout the country to capture a number of party dissidents who agreed to support the government while continuing to call themselves Liberals.

Alive to Torrington's importance, the Liberals have named a blue-ribbon candidate in Mark

Bonham Carter, a 36-year-old publisher graduate of the Princess Margaret set and the son and grandson of high-ranking members of the party's hierarchy.

SYNOPSIS—Skies were generally cloudy throughout B.C. this morning but with large breaks in the cloud cover particularly in northern districts. Intermittent rain fell during the night in the southern interior. An extensive area of low pressure remains nearly stationary off the coast and some shower activity is expected to persist in a southerly flow of moist air to the east of this depression. No general rain is forecast, however, and nearly all areas will have some sunshine today and Wednesday.

The Day Christ Died

(A Condensation of The Book)

INSTALMENT 15

11 A.M., APRIL 7, AD 30

The crowd around the Fortress Antonia arches thinned after the soldiers took Jesus away from the scourging.

The high priests stood in front and conversed in whispers. They were certain that when Pilate had completed the flagellation of the prisoner he would tell them that this was punishment enough. He would try to free Jesus on the promise that He was now a broken and pathetic figure. Caiaphas was nettled by this type of reasoning.

They were whispering about this when Pilate, preceded by Abenadar and a squad of soldiers, came down the steps for the third time. At once the deep growl of many men talking in low voices was hushed.

'No-Guilt in Him'

Once more, the Governor sat in his chair. This time he seemed to be impatient. He glanced angrily at the remaining crowd and, raising his right hand high, he said: "Now look! I am bringing this so-called Messiah out to you, and you must understand that I find no guilt in Him!" He pointed across the Lithostrotos to the left and saw a centurion and some soldiers leading Jesus out.

The crowd looked, and sucked in its breath. This Man was a shocking sight. The face was so marked that individual features were almost indistinguishable. The top of the garment under the cloak was stained.

Pilate looked on the prisoner. He looked at the crowd, and saw the natural pity of common people for suffering. Their eyes also showed horror and some turned away. The Roman wanted to capitalize on the pity and the revulsion. He stood up and walked over to Jesus. Then he seized His hand and held it aloft.

'To the Cross'

"Behold the Man!" he shouted to the crowd.

The high priests and the crowd chanted: "To the cross! To the cross!" Shocked, Pilate dropped the prisoner's hand. He could not believe that, even under the tutelage of Caiaphas, the crowd could be so callous in the face of what was left of this human being.

Did they not realize that, at the snap of his fingers, he could have freed this Man at any stage of the hearing? Why did they press for crucifixion when it was obvious that he did not want to countenance capital punishment in this case? Did they not realize that he could order the immediate arrest of them all?

Realization Too Late

He saw now—too late—that he should not have argued with either the priests or the people. It would have been much better if he had exercised the ius gladii (the power of the Procurator) and ordered Jesus to be freed for lack of evidence.

Pilate glared at the people and made two or three false starts to say something. Finally he said bitterly: "Then take Him in charge yourselves and crucify Him! I find no guilt in Him!" Caiaphas knew, and so did Pilate and everyone present, that the Jews had no power to crucify.

"We have a law," one of the elders said, "and according to the law He must die, for He has declared Himself to be the Son of God!"

Pilate Worried

The Governor was, at his wit's end. He was worried. For he remembered that Procula had begged him please not to do anything about this Man—that she had suffered a great deal in a dream about Him.

Pilate believed in none of it—from divinity to dream—but he was strangely troubled. He turned away on his gilded sandals and walked back into the praetorium, ordering Abenadar to bring the prisoner to him.

Inside, it was Pilate who appeared to be harried. Now a cold fright laid hold of him and he could not understand what frightened him. He studied the wounded Man standing before him and said gently:

"What is Your origin?" Jesus seemed to gather a little strength. He studied the Roman briefly, then lowered His head and did not answer.

"Do you not know," Pilate said through set teeth, "that I have power to set you free and power to crucify you?"

The dry, broken lips moved. The voice was hoarse. "You have no power whatever to harm Me," said Jesus, "unless it is granted to you from above. . . . He who surrendered Me to you is guilty of a graver offense."

The Governor had Jesus brought out again before the remaining crowd. Then he came out and once more seated himself on the curule chair. The high priests and others called out to him: "If you release this Man, you are not a friend of Caesar! Anyone who declares himself a king renounces allegiance to Caesar!"

Heavy Sarcasm

Pilate raised his hand and the noise died slowly. "Look," he said in sarcasm, "there is your king!" The people shouted: "Away with Him! Away with Him! Crucify Him!"

The Procurator pretended to be shocked. "Am I to crucify your king?" This angered the high priests and the people and, in a jumble of sound, Pilate made out the words: "We have no king but Caesar!"

Ironically, this group of Palestinians had now turned the political table, asking so that they appeared to be more loyal to the cause of Tiberius Caesar than Caesar's hand-appointed Governor. At that point, Pontius Pilate gave up the fight.

He had a basin with water brought to him and he stood, dipped both hands into it, and looking directly at Caiaphas said: "I am innocent of the blood of this just Man. The responsibility is yours!"

This was not an original gesture. It had been used many times, and in the juridical sense it merely meant that the judge refused to argue further, and would permit the contender to have his way. Members of the crowd called out: "His blood be upon us and upon our children!"

Cloak Removed

The centurion Abenadar ordered the royal cloak taken from Jesus. Pilate walked to the praetorium slowly. If he looked back, it was to take another glance at the strange prisoner over whom he had fought so hard and so unskillfully. When Claudia Procula asked him about this, Pilate would say, in honesty: "I did not intend to condemn the Man. His crime was religious, so I surrendered Him to Calphas."

Almost as an afterthought, the Procurator called Abenadar to him and ordered that a heavy wooden sign be made to nail to the top of the cross, listing the crime of Jesus in three languages: Hebrew, Latin and Aramic—in that order. The sign, said Pilate, should read: "Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews."

The Name, the Crime

That was His name and His crime.

Abenadar asked about clothing. Knowing that, in most cases where Jews were involved, Pilate permitted the condemned to wear something. The Procurator ordered the centurion to follow custom. On the cross, He would be allowed to wear a breech clout.

Would the other two prisoners—the thieves—be executed at the same time?

Yes, Pilate said. Form the detail, have the signs drawn up and execute the three prisoners.

Were there any special orders from his excellency? No special orders. Proceed, and be done with.

Pilate walked back up the stone steps and into the fortress.

Saanich Council Tables Heavy School Estimates

Saanich Council Monday tabled the estimated budgets tendered by two school districts until the municipality's share of the cost is determined.

Large increases were included in both budget estimates. School District 61 estimate calls for total expenditure this year of $5,887,671, compared with $5,153,161 last year.

Estimated budget for School District 63 is $762,168, up from $633,862 submitted in 1957.

Saanich pays a share of both budgets but its net contribution will not be known until the revised government grant formula is worked out, comptroller-treasurer John Tribe told council.

Tee Topics

By ERNIE FEDORUK

The Donaldson brothers' lengthy hold on the Open But- tons came to an end Sunday at Uplands as City golfers packed up the winter season challenge event for its annual summer vacation.

In the final match until next fall, the Gorge Vale golfing brothers failed in their bid for an eighth successive defence of the buttons by falling, 5 and 4, to Colwood's Laurie Kerr and George (Porky) Andrews. The Junior Buttons also changed hands Sunday when Canadian junior champion Bill Wakeham and Mike Kolb of Gorge Vale teamed up to de- feat defenders Al McLeod and Ted Bradshaw 3 and 2.

Sharpshooting Ken Brou- seau, who is currently em- broiled in the Canadian junior basketball playoffs as a member of the Victoria College Vik- ings, scored the second hole-in- one of his career, and the first at Colwood in some time, Sun- day.

Playing with Jean Massey, assistant pro at Colwood, Brouseau holed out his tee shot on the 153-yard fourth hole.

The initial success of the junior development program's move into high schools has pleasantly surprised Victoria and District Golf Association officials.

Leading amateurs who helped launch the clinics with talks on etiquette and general bene- fits of the game were highly elated with the response of students.

Some 23 students, including four girls, turned out to hear the first clinic at S. J. Willis School while almost 40 heard Dr. George Bigelow speak at University School.

Bill McColl, who conducted the class at S. J. Willis, was bombarded with questions throughout his 75-minute talk.

McColl was scheduled to speak at Belmont today. Hugh Wilson, an exchange teacher from Scotland who shoots to a four handicap, was in charge of arrangements at Belmont and registered more than 40 students for the clinic.

Golf officials find the inter- est most gratifying. The fact that many of the clinics are held after school exemplifies the true value of the interest shown. Indeed, it would seem that our high schools today hold a great nucleus of future golf enthusiasm.

Oak Bay and Mount View are other schools on the junior program.

SHORT PUTTS: Kerr, a busy man at the weekend, also captured top honors in a par competition at Colwood, win- ning top prize with a two-up count. . . Ted Colgate, who finished one up, was runnerup in the field of 67. . . Kerr turned in a hot round and needed a par on the 18th to finish with a two-under-par 68 . . . he hit the green with his second shot but four-putted for a par 70 . . . the 18th was also the downfall for another Laurie . . . Carroll, assistant pro at Oak Bay, was putting for a 65 Sunday when he reached the 18th . . . Carroll three-putted and finished with a two-under 67, which still happens to be hot shooting! Allan Senior and Les Hold- ing captured first prize in a four-ball, best-ball event at Gorge Vale Sunday with 68- 54 — 63½ . . . Roy Briggs and George Murphy were runners-up with 64½, while John Merriman and Joe Briggs took low gross honors with 69 . . .

Durable Dickie Dons NHL's Scoring Crown

MONTREAL (CP)—It became official today — Dickie Moore is the National Hockey League scoring champion for the 1957-58 season and teammate Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens is the runner-up.

Moore compiled 36 goals — highest in the league — and 48 assists for a total of 84 points, fifth highest in league records. The top is 95, made by Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings in the 1952-53 season.

The Little Rocket finished with 28 goals and 52 assists, most assists for any player, and 80 points.

BEST SEASON

The season was by far Moore's best. Last season he had 58 points, his previous high, and in the 1955-56 season 50 points. His best previous goal record was 29, made last season.

Goalie Jacques Plante of Montreal retained the goal-tending honors he won the previous two seasons — the Vezina Trophy. The award goes to the goalie playing the most games with the team least scored upon. Canadiens gave up 158 goals during the season. New York Rangers ranked next, with 188 against.

Plante missed 13 games through illness and injury. His personal goals-against average was 2.26.

Bernie Boosts Canyon Stock

MONTREAL (BUP) — Montreal's colorful and "rocket-powered" Canadiens, bolstered by the return of Bernie (Boom-Boom) Geoffrion, were solid goal-and-a-half or 12.5 favorites to trip Detroit Red Wings tonight in the Stanley Cup opener.

The odds-makers have also made the Canadiens 14.5 favorites to reach the final against New York Rangers, 7.5 choices to get by the Boston Bruins in the other cup semifinal round.

Canadiens, who never played at full strength during the entire season while suffering an awesome total of injuries that amounted to 175 games, were heartened by the decision of Geoffrion. The hard-shooting right winger was given last rites only last Jan. 28 when he suffered a ruptured bowel and was considered definitely finished with hockey until next season. But he announced Monday that he intended to be in action tonight.

But it is defensively where the Canadiens hurt most. Both Tom Johnson and Dollard St. Laurent were expected to miss tonight's game and Johnson's damaged knee may not allow him to get back in the lineup until at least the second or third game.

In contrast, the Red Wings were in the best shape of the season.

"All our players are in fine shape, physically and mentally," said Detroit coach Sid Abel. "I think our club is playing as good as they can right now, and I think that's good enough to beat the Canadiens."

The Habs held a 7-3-4 seasonal edge on Detroit during the regular season.

Spare Netminder

TORONTO (CP) — Goalie Bruce Gamble, formerly with Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Junior Hockey League, Monday was ordered to report to New York Rangers as the National Hockey League team's spare goalie in Stanley Cup playoffs.

Victoria Skiers Take Team Title As Season Ends

Sparked by team captain Tony Lamprecht and Erwin Egger, Victoria Sno Birds captured the inter-Island ski team race and the Mt. Brenton Trophy in the annual meet held at Forbidden Plateau Sunday.

Lamprecht and Egger each made their runs in 22 seconds as the Victoria team posted an overall time of 142.3 to defeat Comox District Mountaineering Club by almost five seconds.

Individual standout, however, was CDMC captain Herb Bradley, who posted the day's fastest time, 20.1 seconds.

The meet marked the end of Vancouver Island's ski season. Other members of the Victoria team, with their times in brackets, were Joe Hippolt (23 seconds), Bud Peetz (23.3), Leo Pike (23) and Barbara Davies (29).

Canada Eskimos In Critical Need Of Outside Help

Canada's Eskimo population is in "critical need" of the help of their fellow citizens. Men's Canadian Club members were told at noon Monday at the Crystal Gardens.

Department of Northern Affairs Arctic Division chief, R. A. J. Phillips, said that "if the Eskimos were left alone to cope with the terrible forces now facing them they would suffer" as much as other primitive peoples swallowed up by civilization.

"We don't think we can solve the Eskimos' problems any more than we have solved our own problems," he said, "so our role must be to help them in the inevitable re-adjustments to prevent exploitation and excesses."

"Probably the most immediate task is to cut down the terrible toll of disease, especially tuberculosis."

"One in every 12 Eskimos has TB and if you asked me to name the five largest Eskimo communities in Canada I would have to include Mountain Sanatorium in Hamilton."

Mr. Phillips urged the rapid expansion of mineral development in the north not only for economic return but to prevent the fall of the Eskimo into "economic insecurity and even poverty."

Following the noon meeting, Mr. Phillips was to speak on the same subject to the Women's Canadian Club at 2.30 p.m. in the Empress Hotel Ballroom.

The Family That Can't Fight Back

"Living like a king" includes losing the right to defend yourself against criticism. When Lord Altrincham made his sensational attack on the Queen, charging that her speaking voice was a "pain in the neck," that her radio personality was that of a "priggish schoolgirl," there could be no direct reply. Others criticize the Queen's clothes, her friends, her fondness for races. Are these charges fair? What is done about them? Read in Weekend Magazine what a reporter close to royal circles says in defence of the family that can't fight back.

Four Political Parties Heard at Sidney Meeting

By PETER MURRAY
Times Political Reporter

SIDNEY — Spokesmen for four political parties cast their nets Monday night for the votes of Sidney's fishing community. They made their pitch at an all-candidates forum sponsored by the Sidney local of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union.

Only 23 persons attended the meeting, and most appeared to be fishermen and their families.

The candidates generally expressed support for the demands of the UFAWU, including opposition to damming salmon rivers and protection of offshore fishing against foreign encroachment.

Speakers were Dr. J. M. Thomas, CCF; Noel Bell, Social Credit; Ernest Knott, Labor-Progressive; and Hugh Henderson, who appeared in place of the sitting Conservative member for Esquimalt-Saanich, Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, Liberal candidate George Preston sent word he was unable to attend because of prior commitments.

'DISCOURTESY' CHARGED

Absence of Gen. Pearkes was scored by Dr. Thomas, who said it was a "discourtesy to the people of this riding."

"Mr. Pearkes should appear sometime, somewhere on a platform with the other candidates so we can make statements facing each other," Dr. Thomas said.

Mr. Knott, one of his party's few candidates in the election, stressed world peace as the main issue of the present campaign.

He said Canada could act as a "bridge" between the U.S. and Russia by taking the lead toward a summit conference.

"We must keep Canada economically active, not radioactive," Mr. Knott said.

JUST LIP-SERVICE

The LPP candidate said the other parties pay lip service to the cause of peace, but go on spending billions for defence materials and support of the NATO alliance.

Canada should give up its overseas bases and transfer some of its defence spending to education and subsidization of a national merchant marine, he said.

On behalf of the Conservatives, Mr. Henderson defended Canada's membership in such alliances as NATO, saying peaceful co-existence "is just not practical at this time."

"We must be prepared, and we must spend large sums of money on defence," said Mr. Henderson, who is Defence Minister Pearkes' agent in the campaign.

WOULD BAN TESTS

Mr. Bell supported the demand for abolition of nuclear tests, which he said represents a "great danger" through pollution of the air, the ground and fish in the sea.

The Social Credit candidate said Canada's economic ills won't be cured until the federal government reassumes full control of the banking system. "No matter what government is returned, it won't be supreme," Mr. Bell said.

Finance Minister Donald Fleming had recently been "told off like a naughty school boy" by the governor of the Bank of money policies.

"It's a fine state of affairs when our elected government has to take second place to the private banks," Mr. Bell said.

The federal government must see there is enough money in circulation to purchase the goods and services that are available, and this can only be done by taking away the bank's credit controls.

PEACE MEET ASKED

Dr. Thomas said the CCF would also press for a meeting of the world powers to end the threat of nuclear war.

He hit out at the Conservatives' announced public works program, which he said is a "deliberate attempt to deceive the people."

Most of the projects announced by Prime Minister Diefenbaker as part of the billion dollar program to combat unemployment were already underway, Dr. Thomas said.

The CCF candidate quoted from Hansard to show what he said represented the opposing stands taken by Gen. Pearkes as a member of the Opposition before last June and as a government supporter since.

Dr. Thomas said Gen. Pearkes in opposition had voted for federal aid to education and a complete national health insurance scheme, but last year had voted

IMPORTANT DECISION

Motorist Beats Driving Charge

NANAIMO—British Columbia drivers can stop worrying about being charged if their wives have an accident with the family car—if a decision handed down in the Nanaimo police court Monday is upheld.

A clause in the Motor Vehicle Act decrees that "a licensed owner shall be deemed guilty of a violation by a person, known or unknown, unless the owner proves both that he did not commit it himself, nor was it committed by a person who had authority from him to have possession of the motor vehicle."

Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts dismissed a charge of driving without due care preferred against Charles Smith, Holberg, B.C., whose car was involved in a collision on Halliburton Street here, December 20. An unidentified friend of Smith's was driving the car.

In his successful defence, counsel R. F. MacIsaac contested the validity of the clause, saying in his notice the Legislature "cannot cast a burden of guilt upon a person who has not committed or abetted a wrongful act."

He cited a recent case in Edmonton where a judge said that a man might be a careful driver himself, but could be proven guilty owing to lack of education on the part of relatives or friends driving his car. In this case also, the driver was acquitted.

The court based its acquittal on a similar case in Ontario.

In making the decision Magistrate Beevor-Potts said he hoped "this important point of law" would be passed on by a higher court.

A cigarette machine was forced open but nothing else disturbed.

'GOAT TRAIL' UNDER PROTEST BY MOTORISTS

CAMPBELL RIVER — The motoring public has complained about a "goat trail" which they had to use to attend a B.C. Power Commission "open house" at the Upper Campbell dam project Sunday.

The power commission had been allowing people into the area on weekends, and motorists had been using part of a private road owned by Elk Lake Timber Co., which the BCPC used for work purposes.

But the timber company erected a barrier Sunday and traffic was detoured to a public road which hadn't been used for three years.

A power commission spokesman said the timber company had every right to erect the barricade, as the timber firm would be responsible for any accidents which might occur.

Tory Candidate Ordered To Stay Away, Sacred Says

DUNCAN—Social Credit federal candidate Foy Polz, who spoke at a public forum Monday with Liberal and CCF candidates, charged the Progressive Conservative candidate failed to appear on party instructions.

He claimed that E. W. Matthews has been instructed not to appear on a multi-party platform.

Others who did show were Colin Cameron, CCF, and Ernest Miller, Liberal.

Mr. Cameron said the election had been called by the Conservatives to "get in out of the rain before the storm breaks over unemployment."

Mr. Miller said the Liberals had plans for Dominion-wide rather than merely sectional progress.

Meeting was sponsored by the Duncan Junior Chamber of Commerce.

SIR CULLUM WELCH
... "you'll love the princess."

'Emigration Good' Says Ex-Lord Mayor

By DINAH KERR

A former Lord Mayor of London views the heavy flow of emigrants from Great Britain to Canada and Australia as "a good thing".

There should be more of a "happy flow" among Commonwealth countries, Sir Cullum Welch said here Monday, "because the peace of the free world will depend entirely on the Commonwealth".

"If we stick together then I think the countries behind the Iron Curtain will think twice before they do anything in a major way," he said.

"Non-division coupled with the friendliness of the United States will keep the world free."

LENGHTY JOURNEY

Sir Cullum was to leave Victoria today on the last leg of a journey that has taken him to Australia, New Zealand, Fiji, Honolulu and San Francisco, as director of C. C. Wakefield & Co., Ltd., an all-British firm specializing in lubricants.

Knighted in 1952 and made a baronet in 1957 at the end of his term as Lord Mayor, Sir Cullum said bonds between Canada and Great Britain will be strengthened even more with Princess Margaret's visit to British Columbia in July.

"She's a charming young lady, with all the grace of all the Royal family," he said, "I think you'll all love her."

Sir Cullum said he knew nothing of the United Kingdom uproar over testing of nuclear bombs because he hadn't read many papers since his Commonwealth travels began in mid-January.

NO BOMB OPINION

He would express no opinion on whether bomb testing should be banned.

"I'm a lawyer, not a technical man," he said. "You might ask a schoolboy that question and he'd give you just as good an answer. It's a matter of high policy."

Sir Cullum is the second director of the lubrications company to become Lord Mayor of London. The founder, Viscount Wakefield of Hythe, was Lord Mayor in 1915.

The firm recently opened a subsidiary company, Castrol Oils (Canada), Ltd., in Vancouver, with head offices in Toronto.

Other branches are located "everywhere outside the Iron Curtain," Sir Cullum said.

Gain in Ontario for CCF Victoria Candidate Claims

The CCF party will score a 20 per cent gain in votes, if not in members, in the key province of Ontario in the March 31 election Victoria CCF candidate Victor Williams predicted Monday night.

Mr. Williams made his prediction to an audience of 20 at the Courtney Street CCF Hall Monday night.

He based his statement on the active support lent the party by the Ontario Federation of Labor and the Canadian Labor Congress, through their various publications.

One such publication charged the Diefenbaker government had done nothing about 33 out of 57 campaign promises carefully recorded before the last election.

PROMISES KEPT

On the other hand, said Mr. Williams, the CCF has kept its promises to labor in Saskatchewan, the only province in which it has formed a government. He pointed to provincial legislation establishing three weeks holiday with pay after five years' service, as an example.

The speaker covered several phases of political interest. He told a questioner he would support the sale of cars made in Canada to Red China. He opposed the right of U.S. industrialists to dictate against such sales.

"Until that situation is cleared up, never let anyone tell me Canada is a free country."

Mr. Williams had a cautious answer for a questioner concerned with fluoridation of water supplies.

"Let the majority rule by plebiscite — or send everyone a packet (of fluorides), and let them use it if they desire..."

He told another questioner the problem of retaining or abolishing the continued use of firemen on diesel engines should be settled only by a labor-management agreement.

MORE LEISURE

He linked the problem with the growing trend to automation. If machines are to do the work of men, everyone should work less for the same return, he stated — even 10 hours a week.

Mr. Williams criticized the Diefenbaker government for making capital of the fact a mainland candidate is of Chinese descent.

"It is shameful to use a man's race as an example of Conservative 'progressiveness' — when just a few years ago, the Conservatives opposed granting the franchise to Asiatics. It was the CCF who engineered it. Mr. Jung (Douglas Jung, Vancouver Centre) can thank the CCF," he said.

Mr. Williams devoted most of his address to federal spending for defence compared to the need for federal dollars for education.

He said the Distant Early Warning Line, constructed across Canada, would only give one-tenth of a second warning of the approach of modern missiles.

OAK BAY HALL PURCHASE BID APPROVED

A bid of $20,000 for purchase of the 46-year-old Oak Bay municipal hall was initially approved by council Monday.

The offer has been made by apartment builder A. K. Smalley, 2706 Dorset who said he has no definite plans as yet for use of the building.

Municipal offices are expected to move within three months to new quarters across the street.

PTA Parley to Study Handicapped Education

A resolution urging the provincial government "to make provision for adequate accommodation and suitable curriculum" for education of mentally handicapped children under the B.C. Public Schools System, will be considered at a B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation convention here April 8 to 11.

Submitted by the board of directors, the resolution also asks that facilities and services of Woodlands School be extended for the benefit of all retarded children, whether resident of the school or not.

Many of the children "are unable to benefit from the type of curriculum currently offered under the schools system, the resolution said, and "interested associations have not the resources to finance facilities for the education of these system."

Woodlands School, it went on to say, "is not at present providing services for many children who need its type of help."

A second resolution from the board asks the federal government to help provide funds for research into methods of education for retarded and other exceptional children.

SAANICH COUNCIL ROUNDUP

Gravel Sidewalk Program Planned for This Year

A $17,742 gravel sidewalk program, mainly near schools, will be undertaken by Saanich this year.

Municipal council Monday endorsed a public works committee recommendation that the proposed sidewalks be gravelled this year and covered with concrete next year.

Council, subject to legal approval, endorsed a recommendation that an oil seal-coating program for Class E roads be undertaken as a maintenance project.

Cost of the work, as provided under the Municipal Act, would be charged against property owners with frontage on the roads on a one-year basis.

Council decided to give the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee $1,500 for entertainment of centennial guests on two conditions.

Requirements are that the other municipalities "agree to their share" and that the fund is administered by a committee of the mayor and reeves. The grant was requested by the committee.

A recommendation urging preparation of a bylaw to regulate off-street parking will be studied by Saanich town planner Anthony Parr.

The recommendation, made by the municipal town planning commission, will be turned over to him for consideration, council decided.

A resolution urging exemption from income tax for interest from municipal bonds was endorsed by council.

The resolution will go before the 1958 conference of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

Another resolution, urging an increase in jury fees paid by the province, will be sent to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities.

Council doubled its normal grant to municipal employees towards construction, of a parade float when it voted to give the association $500 this year for the centennial parade entry.

David Deerpore, Saanich municipal subdivision administrator, was authorized by the council to attend a community planning course at the University of B.C. April 21-26.

Anthony Parr, new town planner, will be asked if he would like to attend.

A request from Central Saanich to purchase water was turned down by council. The council suggested its neighbor should apply to the Greater Victoria Water Board.

Council ordered drafting of a by-law to establish an Advisory Planning Commission as provided by the new Municipal Act. The nine-man commission would supersede the present Town Planning Commission. The new group would have one council representative, five owner-electors, representatives from both school boards and one other person on its roll.

THEY JUST DON'T CARE MUCH ANYMORE!

Fans Carefree as Elvis Drafted

By DINAH KERR

Elvis Presley joined the U.S. army Monday—and three of his local fans aren't shook up at all.

The mumbler from Memphis could put his hair in a French knot and join the Foreign Legion for all they seem to care. Even the ex-president of the Presley fan club could only say, "Well, he has to go."

"I still like him a lot," Pat Peters said in a disinterested "but-I-like-Pat-Boone-better" voice.

And the hair-raising news that Elvis had shaved off his sideburns, she greeted with a mild, "Oh-h-h... not very cute."

A 14-year-old student at S. J. Willis Junior High School, Pat organized the fan club last year. It broke up in the spring because "nobody was interested enough to get out to the meetings."

Two club members, Linda, 14, and Genevieve Marsh, 19, admitted today "it doesn't make much difference" to them whether Elvis dons khaki or not.

"If he makes any more records, we'll buy them," Genevieve, HMC Dockyard clerk, said.

Linda has even adjusted well to her hero's new hairdo. "It doesn't look too bad," she said. "Crazy, eh?"

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Victoria Prayer Healing and Study Group will meet at Christ Church Cathedral's Memorial Hall Wednesday at 3 p.m.

Dr. D. E. Alcorn, 745 Yates Street, was elected president of the Liberal Religious Fellowship (Unitarian) at a recent meeting.

Also elected as officers for the coming year were: H. V. O'Reilly, vice-president; Oswald Abbott, secretary; and Clare Yarwood, treasurer.

Saanich council Monday decided it will try to arrange a meeting with conciliation officer W. T. McLaughlin and the municipal firemen's union next Monday at 7 p.m. The union and council are involved in a wage dispute.

Finance committee will meet municipal employees the following night at 7:30 p.m. to discuss a 1958 contract.

A St. Joseph's hospital request for financial assistance in building its proposed addition was turned down Monday by Saanich council with "regret."

Council pointed out it is heavily committed to the Royal Jubilee Hospital building program "to the extent of $180,000."

Saanich council as a whole will sit as a court of revision to hear ratepayers' objections to levies assessed for local improvements.

May 27 it will hear objections on waterworks bylaws. June 10, paving and drainage projects will be considered. Both meetings will be held in the Royal Oak Women's Institute Hall.

Vancouver alderman, Halford E. Wilson has been named by Victoria firemen as their delegate to a conciliation board which will rule on current wage negotiations with the city.

City representative, announced earlier, is John E. Goldring, View Royal. A chairman will be chosen at a later date.

Donald Marlow Champion, 19, of 1737 Hampshire, was fined $50 in police court today for consuming liquor in a public place.

John Stack, Work Point, was fined $15 for being a minor in possession of liquor.

Support Company, 1st Battalion, PPCLI, fired their 106 mm mobile anti-tank weapon at Albert Head between 10 and 11 a.m. today, the first time the weapon has been fired here by the battalion.

Firing, under company commander Major E. D. McPhail, was at targets towed at sea.

The annual spring show of the Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Garden Society will be held at the Crystal Garden on April 11 and 12. Mrs. J. H. Hamilton, secretary, announced today.

James Smith, Brentwood Reserve, was fined $10 and $10.50 costs in Sidney RCMP court Monday for being in possession of liquor on the reserve.

Seventy dozen daffodils have been air-expressed to Toronto by the Victoria branch, Canadian Restaurant Association, for decorating tables at the association's opening convention luncheon at the Royal York Hotel.

Several Victoria restaurant owners are attending the meeting.

FILM PROGRAM on "Israel as I Saw It"—In the Light of Bible prophecy will be presented by Casimir Lanowick, Grand Rapids, Mich., at a public meeting in the Crystal Garden lower ballroom Sunday at 3 and 8 p.m. Film "Land of Promise" also will be shown. Editor of "Jews in the News," a quarterly digest, Mr. Lanowick has spent seven months in Israel in the past seven years and has given 400 illustrated lectures on the country in the United States, Canada and England.

Police Asking Conciliation Of Pay Dispute

Follow Action Of City Firemen

Victoria city police have joined city firemen and public health nurses in seeking settlement of current wage disputes by conciliation board decision.

Mayor Percy Scurrar, chairman of the city police commission, said today repeated meetings between the police union and the commission made no progress toward agreement.

NO COUNTER-OFFER

He said the police demands had not been met with any counter-offer by the commission. Police bargaining committee reportedly asked a boost of over 21 per cent.

The mayor's statement indicates the police union was the only union of civic employees not offered the 5.22 per cent increase accepted earlier by inside employees.

The offer was made to the firemen, who are paid within a dollar of police wage scales. However, negotiations with police are carried out by the police commission. All other civic unions deal with city council, through city manager C. C. Wyatt.

Conciliation board decisions are binding on police and firemen under the Municipal Act. Under the present salary scale, a first-class constable receives $359 a month.

Mayor Scurrar said the outcome of the various conciliation board deliberations may mean the difference between holding the tax line and a mill rate increase.

"I am cautiously optimistic that we will be able to budget without an increase in taxes this year—but a great deal will depend upon results of conciliation, and clarification of school costs."

Greater Victoria municipalities are still in the dark concerning what share of area school costs will be accepted by the provincial government. Grants which will be paid to ward cost of teacher wages, have not been disclosed.

ON BILLETING

Aldermen Asked To Lead Way

City aldermen Thursday will be asked to "set an example" in extending personal hospitality to out-of-town visitors coming here for the May 19, Victoria Day parade and celebrations.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood, chairman of Greater Victoria Celebrations Association, said he will propose that members register to provide billets.

GVCA has asked residents to take in 500 paraders who will be coming here with bands and drill teams from points throughout the Pacific Northwest. So far response has been slow.

The committee has suggested accommodation, bed-and-breakfast, be offered free of charge. Registrations are taken at GVCA offices in City Hall.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: William George Dauphin, 613 Avalon, $75 for driving while under suspension.

Granville Henderson, 4026 Zinnia, $15 for driving with inadequate brakes.

John Jeyes, 2967 Henderson, $25 for driving without a licence.

Marvin Martyn, 1044 Redfern, $10 for driving through a red light.

Sidney Ginther, Work Point, $25 for driving without a licence and $10 for making a U-turn between intersections in the business area.

In Sidney RCMP court Monday:

Jean Pauline Oxby, Sidney, $15 and $3.50 costs for speeding over 30.

Frank Cummings, Keating, $10 and $3.50 costs for operating a trailer without a licence.

In city police court Monday: John Martin, 2442 Eastdowne, $10 for failing to have current licence plate on a trailer.

Herbert Stewart Baird, 518 Sumas, $35 for speeding over 30, $25 for failing to heed a siren and $15 for failing to have a handbrake.

meeting will be held at the Chamber of Commerce at 8 p.m. Representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the Victoria Natural History Society, the Victoria branch, Architects Institute of B.C., the Victoria and Vicinity Motor Courts Association, the Parent-Teacher Council and others, will attend the meeting.

The organizations are expected to recommend to the government the purchase of the property for development into a natural park and picnic site.

Pickets Withdrawn By Electricians Here

Three-Week Strike To End Wednesday

Picket lines were withdrawn from B.C. Electric and Hume & Rumble Ltd. installations here today as the electricians' strike came to its end.

A Vancouver report said that the 1,500 strikers, including 175 in Victoria, would return to work Wednesday.

Final settlement of the wage dispute will be made through arbitration by a supreme court judge to be appointed by Mr. Justice Sherwood Lett.

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers said that under an agreement reached Sunday, a conciliation board recommendation will be a guaranteed "floor" for the arbitration.

LINEMEN KEY GROUP

The board recommended wage increases ranging from 8 per cent for unskilled workers to 19 per cent for linemen—key group in the dispute.

The union struck three weeks ago for increases ranging from 20 to 40 per cent.

Linemen earn $2.41½ to $2.49 an hour at present.

All other issues in the dispute—overtime and "rain-time" provisions—have been settled by negotiation at meetings since

No power interruptions occurred here during the strike. BCE crews of supervisory and non-union technical personnel kept generators humming at manned substations.

The break in the dispute came as the possibility arose last week that the IBEW would extend its picket lines against bus and gas services operated by BCE.

Jack Driscoll, business agent for the IBEW's Victoria local, said a membership meeting Sunday night approved the basis for the settlement.

Leaving for a Vancouver meeting at press time, he said he could not confirm that Victoria electricians would return to work Wednesday until he had consulted with the Vancouver union officials.

However, James Drinkwater, chairman of the local strike committee, Sunday said that the men would return to work in "a day or two."

FLIER SAFE HERE WITH PLANE AS BIG SEARCH ORGANIZED

The pilot of a small plane rested quietly aboard his craft in the Inner Harbor overnight as the B.C. Search and Rescue Organization prepared to launch a large-scale search.

The pilot, Royal Large of Corvallis, Ore., was on his way from Alaska to his home.

He landed at Alert Bay Monday afternoon for fuel, filed a flight plan saying he would arrive in Victoria at 6:50 p.m.

When he had not reported to Patricia Bay Airport at 8 p.m., he was reported as overdue.

Early this morning aircraft were poised for a 10 a.m. take-off to search for the plane.

Mr. Large heard wireless transmission reporting him missing, and telephoned RCMP here all was well.

He had spent the night moored at the Evans, Coleman, Johnson Wharf, and had simply neglected to report his arrival.

Rebuilding Job For Shelbourne

Saanich Approves $100,000 Plan; Start Possible in Two Months

Reconstruction of Shelbourne Street, doubling the road width for eight blocks at a total cost of more than $100,000, was approved by Saanich council Monday night

The program, major road job planned by the municipality this year, will start in about two months if it hurdles all legal obstacles.

The plan calls for widening of the road from Cedar Hill Cross Road to North Dairy at the city boundary.

A petition against it signed by 50 per cent or more of the frontage owners would shelve the program. Council ordered the required advertisement of intent, giving the property owners 30 days to object.

About $89,000 of the cost will be paid by the municipality.

The road will be widened from its present 20 feet to 40 feet. Curbs and gutters will be built and a storm sewer installed to eliminate a roadside ditch.

Property owners will share the cost of the curbs, gutters, drainage and a side strip of asphalt if the project goes ahead.

Government Offers Help With Merger

Full co-operation with Victoria and Saanich in investigation was offered by Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black Monday.

Mayor Percy Scurrar and Reeve Arthur Ash said following a meeting with the minister, the government would provide all helpful information available.

A full report will be made to the special committee of Saanich and Victoria councils, "as soon as possible," Reeve Ash stated.

Minors Fined For Having Liquor

Naval seamen Russell Jones and Carl Dander each were fined $15 in city police court Monday when they pleaded guilty to charges of being minors in possession of liquor.

Price of the transaction was undisclosed.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me where I could get a detailed road map of North America showing secondary as well as main highways? J.W.

A. We can't locate one locally. There is a map of Canadian and northern U.S. roads which you can obtain free of charge from the B.C. Government Travel Bureau. A map showing all secondary roads in North America would be an impossible size. But a reputable and accurate book-map-setup which would provide all the data you require can be obtained from the American Hotel Registry Co., 226-232 West Ontario St., Chicago 10, Ill. It is called Lenhy's Hotel-Motel Guide and Travel Atlas; cost, $6. Blaney's Travel Service Ltd., Government Street, have a copy if you care to take a look at it before ordering.

Anybody wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Meeting Tonight to Fight For Craigflower Peninsula

See earlier story on page 17.

A group of city organizations representing several hundred citizens will meet tonight to discuss a plan of action to save Craigflower Peninsula on Portage Inlet from becoming a housing site.

Woodlands Estate Ltd., owners of the property, have an application before the government for permission to build 20 homes on the site.

Magic Mitts Make Polishing Your Silver a Simple Job

By PENNY SAVER

Say now! Isn't that something? No fuss... no muss at all. Just think—now you can clean your silverware without mucking about with gooey cleaning pastes, pots of solution or even soda in aluminum containers. All you do is slip on a pair of magic gloves. They are soft, soft mittens that will polish your silver to gleaming brightness without the use of a cleaning fluid, because the cleaning power is right in the mittens. I told you it was something! Get a pair of these magic mittens tomorrow for $1.98.

We've been having the grandest sailing weather lately. Which means it's time to don the old cableknit sweater and get into the act.

S-o-o-o... I'm ready to tell you about the cableknit sweaters, girls. Ones I saw today looked as though they'd been handknitted. I think it's because they are done in fairly big (though firm) stitch. Made in Scotland, you can buy them with turtle neck and long sleeves in colors navy, red, yellow and the popular white. Price per sweater is $12.95.

Some girls don't suit turtle-neck sweaters because they have short necks... so here's the same style sweater, but with a crew neck, just for you. Same price.

Another style sweater in heavy white wool with crew neck sells for $14.95. It is knit in double stitches instead of cableknit and is also very smart.

Something I saw today made me think that young working wives should take note. It was a rotisserie full of young spring chickens just oozing with juice as they gradually roasted to a golden brown.

I couldn't help thinking what a delightful supper for two, one of these young birds would make. Pick one up on your noon hour to take home for hubby's dinner. You pay about $1.59 for it, as the price varies according to size of bird.

Also got the idea that one would make for scrumptious picnic lunching for two. What do you say?

Call me at 2-3131 for names of stores where I shopped today.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Groom's Parents Are Reception Guests:

We have two sons getting married within two weeks of each other. Both weddings will have catered receptions. We cannot afford to split the expenses with the bride's families. What is expected of us, as we don't wish to do more for one than the other.

Louise Davis Answers: You have no responsibility in sharing any of the expense for the two weddings. Louise Davis dings, and I hope that the parents of the two brides are aware of it. Anyone entertaining with a reception or any other kind of a party bears the expense and should not expect help from anyone else. The bridegroom's parents are guests at a wedding and guests don't pay their way. You will undoubtedly want to give the two couples wedding gifts, but that has nothing to do with the ceremonies or receptions. If you can manage without too much sacrifice to entertain for the two couples in some way within a few days of the weddings, you should allow a certain sum and stick to it. If you think that the bride's parents expect financial help, perhaps you can tactfully let it be known that the bridegroom's parents don't share the expense. A good way to handle the problem if it comes up would be to talk it over frankly with your sons and they in turn might tactfully inform their fiancées. Your stand should be clearly understood.

Junior Shapes—The Chemise in Printed Pattern

The newest heavenly body to orbit around the fashion world is the Chemise... sensationally curved to a junior's figure in Anne Adams Printed Pattern 4779. Slim and streamlined from shoulder to hem, it skips the waist and narrows the hips to suggest rather than define the figure beneath.

Interpreted here in window-pane checks with a lingerie frill at the scooped neckline, the Chemise is the smartest of summer fashions, and simple enough for beginners to sew. The subtle shaping and fit of the silhouette is assured by the use of the Magic-Tab Talon dress-placket zipper in the new longer 14-inch length. This is so easy to apply with the "no-pin, no-baste" method featured in the package.

Among the other spring and summer fabrics appropriate for this easy-sew Printed Pattern are pique, casual cotton knit, fluid silk shantung, textured linen, or crisp cotton.

Printed Pattern 4779 is available in Junior Miss sizes 9, 11, 13, 15, 17, Size 13 dress takes 2½ yards 35-inch fabric; vestee takes ½ yard.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

As my readers know "Why Grow Old?" does not advocate thinking in terms of years. However, there is information and there are tricks which will add to the health and beauty of the middle-aged woman.

1. Do not wear orange tinted make-up, or be very sure it is right for you, since most complexions tend to sallow some with the years.

2. Do not put rouge over wrinkles and powder very lightly, if any, over them.

3. Use lipstick and eye make-up but do so cleverly, which means subtly and not extremely.

4. Tight curls, and shoulder length hair are usually aging. Beware of them.

5. Do not wear too much jewelry (bracelets, earrings, necklaces and pins) all at the same time. I do not know why older women have a tendency to do this: Women of this age must depend on line and color and on being chic for greatest charm in appearance.

6. Do not become careless about your figure and blame it on age.

7. Fight against the tendency to slump as you grow older. The spine shortens, and many women allow gravity to win the battle with protruding chins and round shoulders as results. Nothing is so attractive in middle aged and older men and women as good posture. This always gives the illusion of youth. This is one attribute everyone can take down the years.

8. Take exercises regularly but be sure that they are right for you and stop long before you are tired. Of course you must have a physical check-up before beginning.

9. Even if you have not done so before, take short rest periods during the day.

10. Have your breasts examined and a vaginal smear taken for cell examination at least twice a year during these years.

11. You do not need so much food but the kind you eat is of the greatest importance to your health and your looks. Most older folks are deficient in iron, calcium and protein.

Bacon Packaging; Orange Sprays And Meat Inspection Concern CAC

Members of Victoria Branch, Canadian Association of Consumers, discussed the packaging of bacon at a meeting in Victoria Public Library music room, Monday afternoon. It was decided to write to the provincial CAC Council asking that action be taken to prevent manufacturers packaging the bacon in such a manner that it is partly hidden from the buyer's view. Letters will also be sent to the provincial group suggesting that action be taken to prevent the spraying of oranges with harmful chemicals to improve appearance and to make a study as to the harmful effects of hair sprays on the lungs. The local branch also decided to write the minister of agriculture urging the inspection of locally grown meat. Guest speaker, Robert S. Hallock, assured the gathering that rugs and carpets may be vacuumed as much as they wish. "Vacuuming regularly is the very best treatment to give your rugs and carpets, because nothing wears a rug or carpet down faster than dirt," he said. Backing his statement, Mr. Hallock said that heat and dirt are common breeding grounds for moth eggs. "And moths shorten the life of the precious weaves," he pointed out. Plans were made for receiving the national president of the CAC, Miss Isabel Atkinson, who will be in Victoria in May.

'Ask Andy' Winner All Round Girl

Lively curiosity in the things around her has won 11-year-old Dale Ingram, 17 Lotus Street, an award in the Times "Ask Andy" column.

The grade six student, who attends Burnside Elementary School, is one of the few pupils under the accelerated studies program and was permitted to skip grade four.

Dale wanted to know why the sky is blue. She and other "Andy" readers can find the answer in today's column.

In addition to her scholastic work she is on the school basketball team, is a keen Girl Guide, and swims regularly at the "Y."

Her father, J. A. Ingram, has been a civil servant with the Department of Public Works since the family moved to Victoria from Kamloops in 1949.

For submitting the winning question Dale has become the owner of a set of Compton's Picture Encyclopedia and a certificate which her father has framed for her.

INCOME TAX TIPS

Professional Men Use Special Page

As a special service to Times readers, Gordon Holmes, Victoria chartered accountant, has agreed to provide a series of articles dealing with income tax problems to help eliminate the trouble and expense experienced in filing proper returns.

By GORDON HOLMES

Doctors, dentists, lawyers, engineers, architects and chartered accountants will receive "treatment" today.

This group of Canadian taxpayers can report incomes on the cash basis and can use page four of the T-1 General Form as their "statement of income and expenses" for the fiscal period ending in 1957.

The cash basis means that your 1957 professional income is the difference between cash fees received and expense monies paid out during the fiscal year ending in 1957.

If you use an automobile or other equipment in your profession, complete the capital cost allowance schedule at the bottom of page four.

Doctors and dentists may charge off, in the year of purchase, all instruments costing less than $50. If the cost is over $50, the instruments must be capitalized and depreciated in the normal manner.

In the case of lawyers, and the other professional men, the cost of library additions is allowed as an expense in the year of purchase.

Professional men can claim part of the expense incurred in operating an automobile, but the amount claimed is dependent upon use and varies according to the individual. There is no income tax ruling which says 75 per cent of auto expenses are chargeable against income and 25 per cent chargeable against the individual; each case is decided on its own merit.

All professional men should keep a proper set of books, and be able to substantiate all expenses by proper vouchers.

Professional men have the option to report their income on the accrual basis as well as the cash basis mentioned above.

Briefly, the accrual basis means that outstanding accounts receivable are included in income, and unpaid bills are included in expenses.

Your chartered accountant will explain the details of the difference between the cash method and accrual method of reporting income.

Juvenile Home Board Discouraged

Saanich Council Monday instructed its juvenile officer to attend meetings of the juvenile home's directors after it heard the board might break up.

Coun. Stanley Murphy, Saanich representative on the board of management for the detention home on Collihar Road, told council that the board might "disband because it doesn't know what power it has."

He said besides municipal council representatives, juvenile officers also attended meetings "but they don't know whether they can vote or not. That's a very unsatisfactory situation."

If juvenile officers were to be called in only for consultation, they felt they should be directed to attend each meeting.

Coun. Murphy asked that Harry Adams, the municipal juvenile officer, be directed to attend.

Reeve Arthur Ash, stressing that he was speaking generally, said "it is just too bad if the officers feel they must be directed to attend. After all, many other municipal officials, like the engineer, have to attend night meetings as a matter of course."

Big Crowds Hear Salvation Army Temple Band

Near-capacity crowds turned out over the weekend to hear the Vancouver Temple Band in its centennial appearance here under auspices of the Salvation Army.

More than 800 persons attended a concert at Victoria High School Saturday night when the band shared a program with the Victoria Rotary Boys' Choir.

The band also performed at Salvation Army meetings Sunday and at a concert in First Baptist Church that afternoon. Bandmaster is Clifton E. Gillingham.

Chamber Talks Tour

A goodwill centennial tour to the Peace River district on the PGE will be considered by a Chamber of Commerce tourist trade group meeting at the Olde England Inn at 6.30 p.m. Thursday.

The suggested tour would take in Kamloops, Prince George and several other pioneer settlements along the railway line.

If approved by the members, the tour would be held sometime in May.

Cold Spell Ends

LONDON (Reuters)—Warmer but wet weather with some fog spread over the British Isles today after a cold spell lasting almost three weeks.

Blue Rays Stumble in Air

Out in space the colored rays of a sunbeam keep pace with each other. They travel together and their colors are hidden. When the sunbeam hits the air, it tangles with billions of tiny particles. The blue rays, traveling with short steps, get tripped. They are bent from their path, torn off from the rest of the sunbeam. The blue rays are scattered over the sky.

The filmy air can do this because it is made of gas molecules and fragments of dust. In a thimbleful of ordinary air there are about 150 billion billion gas molecules and maybe 20,000 fragments of dust and debris — all too small for our eyes to see. But these bitsy particles are just the right size to trip up the blue rays traveling with short, short steps. The short wave length blue rays are bent or refracted. They scatter and color our sky a heavenly blue.

If young people would write and ask him their questions he would answer two each day in his newspaper column.

Andy asked his godfather about this idea. His godfather happens to be Mr. Andy Lyon, editor of your own Bridgeport Post. He assured Andy that editors would be only too happy to give their young readers answers to their questions in clear and understandable form. And he was right. The idea worked out. Andy selects two and works hard to answer them in words that young people can understand. The gift awards are to encourage his young friends to go on in their search for information and find more and more answers for themselves.

Board Seeks Powerhouse Preservation

Greater Victoria Water District Board will speak to B.C. Electric officials about preservation of a pioneer electric powerhouse, located at Japan Gulch.

Victoria branch, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, told the water board the unit should be preserved as a museum.

Mayor Scurrah agreed, while pointing out public admittance would depend on fencing and other fire precautions, as the fire is located on the watershed.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING, PETER?

TESTING A TRAP.

DOES IT WORK?

CERTAINLY IT WORKS. I'M TRAPPED AIN'T I?

YOU'RE A GENIUS, PETER.

NOSIREEE.....DON'T SEE NO REASON FOR YOU TO GET OFF HERE, LESSN' YOU WANT TO CUT WOOD, SHOVEL SAND, OR PUMP WATER.

SAND DOME'S FILLED, NATE. NEED ANY HELP WITH THAT WOOD?

NOPE, TENDER'S LOADED, EASE HER ON DOWN TO THE WATER TANK, ED. WELL, LOAD HER UP.

THAT DOES IT, ED. TURN HER LOOSE, YOU'RE GOOD FOR ANOTHER SEVEN MILES. TAKE IT SLOW AT SAND CREEK.....OL' MAN BARLOW'S GOT SOME COWS GRAZIN' ALONG THE RIGHT O' WAY.

-C'MON, BOYS..... LET'S GET SOME COFFEE.

IS THAT ROGER SMITH DRESSED AS A DOG?

YES-AND WATCH OUT FOR HIM--

-HE'S SHEDDING!

SO, MIGUEL, YOU LET MY CHAMPION GAMECOCK ESCAPE, JUST AS THOUGH IT WERE A COMMON BARNYARD CHICKEN?

MISS EGGHEAD, IN ALL MY YEARS OF TRANSPORTING BIRDS FOR YOU, THE LID TO THE CARRYING CASE HAS NEVER BEFORE DROPPED OPEN.

YOUR DAUGHTER WAS WITH YOU THAT NIGHT, REMEMBER?

OH, YES, MISS EGGHEAD, BUT THE LITTLE TYKE WAS SOUND ASLEEP ON THE BACK SEAT, BESIDES SHE WOULD NOT--

OH, POOR JOHNNY-BIRD! THEY SAID YOU WOULD DIE, BUT YOU ARE GETTING WELL, YES?

HELLO, MISTER

HI, KID---I HAVEN'T SEEN YOU SINCE LAST YEAR

WELL--WHAT'S NEW?

THANKS FOR YOUR COOPERATION, COR. BURNE-SMYTHE. IF THIS DIANA WOLF WERE ONE OF YOUR BRITISH SECRET AGENTS, OF COURSE YOU'D KNOW OF HER.

QUITE SO, OLD BOY! BUT WHY DO YOU ASK?

WE CAUGHT THIS WOLF PERSON SCUBA-DIVING UNDER ONE OF OUR DESTROYERS.

NO HARM MEANT, I'M SURE. JUST ANOTHER STUPID TOURIST, I DARE SAY. YOU'LL GIVE HER A GOOD SCARE AND RELEASE HER, EH, WHAT?

NOT THIS GIRL, IF SHE'S NOT ONE OF YOUR AGENTS, SHE'S A RED. SHE'S GOT ENTANGLED IN A NET UNDER THE DESTROYER. WE INTEND TO LET HER DROWN.

DROWN! BUT I SAY, OLD BOY, YOU CAN'T DO SUCH A THING! IT'S INHUMAN!

WHAT'S THIS, DOTTY?

YOUR DINNER HORACE!

DINNER? A BIRD EATS MORE THAN THIS!

YOU SAID YOU WERE TRYING TO LOSE WEIGHT!

YEH--BUT I'M NOT TRYING THIS HARD!

SEE WHA! I'M GOING TO GO HOME!

WHY DON'T YOU CALL YOUR MOM AND ASK HER IF YOU CAN STAY HERE ALL NIGHT?

---AND TWO MYRTLE HAN INVITED ME TO STAY ALL NIGHT.

I THOUGHT YOU WERE AFRAID TO GO HOME IN THE DARK!

HOW FRED THAT! I'M A FRAIDIER NOT TO!

WHY THESE THINGS, JACK, THEY'RE JUST HORRIBLE!

LOOK, LOVE, FOR WOMEN TRAVELING EAST FROM EL PASO, THIS IS THE HEIGHT OF FASHION!

THIS IS WOMEN'S WEAR?

YES--A VOGUE DICTATED BY A VERY REAL EXPEDIENTY.

I DON'T UNDERSTAND.

YOU WOULD MISS IF YOU KNEW ANYTHING ABOUT THE MESCALERO!

INDIANS BETWEEN HERE AND FORT STOCKTON!

YOU MEAN THEY DIFFER SOME HOW FROM THE OTHER SAVAGES WE'VE ENCOUNTERED?

YEZZUM, THEY SURE DO--SOME--HOW!

I'M GLAD YOU CAME, ROBERTS. MAYBE I CAN PROVE TO YOU THAT A MAGPIE STOLE MISS LANE'S JEWELS!

YOU'RE TELLING ME A BIRD IS THE THIEF? WHO YOU TRYING TO KID TRAIL?

QUIT PLAYING BIRDWATCHER TRAIL, AND TELL ME WHERE YOU HID THE JEWELS!

THE LAUGH-A-MINUTE GAL

Rollicking Comedienne Draws Capacity Audience

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON
It was only a one woman show but the stage of the Royal Theatre fairly shouted with color, laughter and dynamic energy as the laugh-a-minute gal, Anna Russell, romped through a more than two-hour program, Monday night.

Her capacity audience responded joyously to a lesson in the fine art of bagpipe playing, a demonstration of German lieder singing, how to write your own Gilbert and Sullivan opera and an analysis of Wagner's "Ring of the Nibelungs."

Many of her selections Miss Russell had done before in one of her two previous appearances in Victoria, but they came out as fresh and funny as ever on third hearing.

This is due to the spontaneous effect she creates and to her intense personal magnetism. She struts, jigs, squirms, mugs and hams about the stage, completely at home with her audience—the perfect extrovert.

These attributes are natural endowments, as unstudied and artless as a child's horseplay.

Her real skill is in the accuracy with which she lays her finger upon the "attendant humor" of sacrosanct classics and lays bare the thin line between sober earnestness and absurdity.

LOVING FATHER REALLY WOMAN

LECKHAMPTON, England (Reuters) — This little village has been rocked by the news that one of its most devoted "fathers" was really a woman.

Everyone in Leckhampton knew 73-year-old Chris Williams, who died of a perforated ulcer a few days ago. He spent 20 years in the area.

Now, it has been disclosed that the hearty, beer-drinking Chris was really a woman called Christine Williams. The big question villagers asked is does the young sailor who called Chris "Dad" know about the sex fraud? The young man, Ian Williams, is believed to be in London but nothing has been heard from him.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 1958

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—By contacting those who are truly in a position to give you the financial and moral support you need to put your ideas across, you will be on the road to success today, if you show co-operation, too. P.M. work.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Pull yourself out of that dull-dull existence you have been hibernating in for so long. Find out how you can earn more and put new ideas to work. If you contact right financial expert, it will be easy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—The day was made for you. Dress impeccably and step into the interesting world of activity and progress. Impress right persons with your great ability and intellect. Sociability will take you very far.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)—Confidential activity along the lines that most interest you will result in gaining the goals you are chasing, but be sure you tell nobody of your affairs, or jealousy could cause you to fail.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Many things break into the open today in your personal life. However, you find wonderful friends, businessmen, kin all willing to give you the boost you need. State your aims clearly, be honest in all things.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Things are big today as you possibly can, and go to visit the most influential people you know. They will give you of their time and backing. However, see that you make a fine impression in all ways. Be clever!

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—It is possible to meet many persons today who will be instrumental in helping you with your ventures in the near future, whether of business, entertainment, or personal nature. Be friendly, kind, and exude happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—A good intuition assails you with regard to best procedure to follow that will increase the love and efficiency of your household. Be most sensible about money, and add a touch of beauty here and there. Be good.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—If you take time to converse at length with partners today, there will be most happy results therefrom which will make the future brighter. Lend an ear to their suggestions, co-operate, then sign on the dotted line.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Here is the ideal day to get that talent-loaded mind of yours working on specific abilities and works at hand. Show appreciation for the efforts of others, and see that you are sensible where practical matters are concerned.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—This morning you find yourself at your charming best, so see that you dress accordingly, improve your health by exercises, and then full speed ahead toward your goals. Get in some sports, romance, etc.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—If you will only stop concentrating on own ideas today, and give others your ears, you will find that there are many opportunities awaiting you in the world of action and success. Follow the best and be broad-minded.

OF THIS AND THAT—No doubt it was impossible to do better or the CBC would have done so. But one must admit that the most disappointing sports show of the year was the filming of the Whittby Dunlops hockey game against the Russians. The camera must have been slapped at one end of the ice and what its lens caught after that was more by miracle than by intent.

Just when I was going to suggest that someone take Canada's lobster fisherman Yvon Durelle away to a quiet spot and teach him how to box so that what happened to him at the hands of Tony Anthony couldn't happen again, up pops slugger Virgil Aikins and POW!—down goes classy boxer Isaac Logart for the count.

When Wayne and Shuster decided to wow U.S. critics they did it up in grand style, even securing a one-year "on their own terms" contract with Ed Sullivan. Their first date on the CBS show is May 4.

NOW SULLIVAN says he plans to do one of his regular Sunday shows in Toronto, Oct. 19. According to reports from Toronto he plans to bring on stage such former Canadians as Mary Pickford, originally from Toronto; Norma Shearer, born in Montreal; Guy Lombardo, who comes from London, Ont.; and Gisele MacKenzie, formerly of Winnipeg. He said that John Wayne and Frank Shuster will be billed to appear at the same time.

It is reported that CBS is close to finalizing a deal with Jackie Gleason for the comic to present six hour-long musicals over the network next autumn. The Loretta Young show has been renewed for next season.

Bob Ross, who once wrote wit for the Joan Davis comedy series, has now joined the George Gobel show—they're saying that Sid Caesar is being offered the lead in the motion picture, "A Million Dollar Nose" also that Joanne Woodward will be seen in two Tennessee Williams teleplays, "Mooney's Kid Don't Cry" and "This Property Is Condemned."

"MONEY MAKER"

One of the most successful modern auto courts on Vancouver Island is now on the market for the first time. Starting with a small capital in 1946, the owner-operator has built this money into a tip-top money-maker by modernizing and modernizing others. Earning all these expenses out of profits. The struggle of the early years, when all motel operators made money is now a thing of the past, and the operation is running smoothly, earning $30,000 a year from the 16 up-to-date units plus a smart modern fully equipped, fully furnished and comfortable 3-bedroom Oil-O-Matic residence for the owner. Smart reception office, fully equipped kitchen, full bathroom, full driveway, lawn and extra building lots for further expansion. Full price $125,000.00. Mr. Eric A. MacFadyen, 24-hour telephone service.

Navy Sprucing Costs Millions

OTTAWA (CP)—The navy has spent $73,500,000 to modernize 21 frigates which originally cost $42,000,000, it is learned authoritatively.

The modernization program, under way for seven years, was completed several weeks ago. Eleven of the frigates are in commission. Five are in the reserve fleet, two are undergoing refit and three are on loan to the Norwegian Navy.

The frigates were purchased at about $2,000,000 apiece during the Second World War but equipment and other costs have risen so sharply since then that modernization of a single frigate cost approximately $3,500,000.

Main renovation in the frigates was to equip them with new triple-barrelled anti-submarine mortars and associated detection gear.

The original bridge structure of the frigates was completely removed and rebuilt in aluminum and the forecastle deck extended to the stern.

KOREAN WAR MEDALS are pinned on PO William McKay, Happy Valley, by Capt. M. G. Stirling, commanding officer of the destroyer-escort Crescent and captain of Second Canadian Escort Squadron. PO McKay joined navy as stoker in 1939; served aboard HMCS Uganda in action against Japan and in Korean war theatre aboard HMCS Sioux. The medals were presented while Crescent and four other destroyer-escorts were headed for Far East on training cruise and goodwill visits. (RCN Photo.)

Ballot Casting Starts For Armed Services

OTTAWA (CP)—Voting in the March 31 general election started Monday for armed service men and women serving abroad and at home. On four continents their vote closes Saturday. The results are to be announced April 5.

In Asia, Africa, Europe and North America a total of 116,767 members of the Canadian armed forces abroad with their service-men husbands, and 6,563 veterans in hospitals throughout Canada are eligible to vote this week. They add up to 130,335 eligible voters.

In last year's June 10 general election a total of 74,437 ballots were cast when eligibles totalled 131,578.

The service vote is to be pooled at four points for counting—London, England, Halifax, Ottawa and Edmonton. The London count will take in votes from Egypt, Germany, France, Indochina and elsewhere. The Ottawa count takes in Ontario, Quebec and the United States.

FAR EAST VOTE

Votes from the Far East go into the Western Canada count at Edmonton.

Service voters outside of Canada are the only ones entitled to see at their polling stations a list of candidates identified with political affiliation. That is because they are far from their home constituency and may not know the name of their party's candidate there.

Results of the four original counts are messaged to chief electoral officer Nelson Castonguay in Ottawa, from where they are passed on to the constituency returning officers.

Home Building Starts Show Sharp Jump

OTTAWA (CP)—Housing starts in Canadian centres with a population of 5,000 or more rose sharply in February to 4,374 from 1,773 in the corresponding month last year, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation said Monday.

The federal agency said the February increase brought the number of starts in the first two months of the year to 8,319, up from 3,227 in 1957.

Housing units completed in February increased to 6,284 from 6,094 a year previous and rose in the two-month period to 14,319 from 13,398. Houses under construction at the end of February totalled 43,130 compared with 35,386 last year.

Loans approved under the National Housing Act rose to 5,232 in February from 2,651 in January and in the two months to 7,883 from 1,457 last year.

Teamsters Strike Violence Bared at Probe

TORONTO (CP)—Witnesses appearing before a royal commission investigating organizing methods used by the Teamsters' Union CLC during a sand and gravel pit strike in 1956, have told stories of threats, violence and sabotage which forced them into the union.

Six truck drivers Monday told the commission, set up as the results of allegations made before the Ontario legislature's select committee on labor relations Jan. 30, that they were frightened into joining the union and going on strike.

John Robert Watson of near Newmarket, and John Williams and Ronald Conner, both of nearby Stouffville, said they were approached by men who threatened them with "personal violence or damage" to their trucks, and Lorne Dickinson testified his truck was sabotaged. Ray Tofflemire of Toronto and Donald Anderson of Stouffville gave similar testimony.

Pearson Attacks Tory 'Cult of Personality'

Liberals Rely On Voters' Intelligence

TORONTO (CP)—Lester B. Pearson says that unlike the Progressive Conservatives, the Liberals have rejected the "cult of personality, whether expressed in terms of dictatorship or demagoguery."

The Liberals, instead of depending on "oracular fervor and circus crusades," appealed to voters' "essential goodwill and intelligence," the party leader said Monday night in a national television broadcast.

Comparing the two major parties, Mr. Pearson suggested that a political leader had to do more than "rhapsodize about a vision of the future." He had to state clearly his ideas on policy and legislation touching on the lives of all Canadians.

PRACTICAL PROGRAM

The Liberals had put before the public an election program based on the alleviation of financial suffering among the lower-income families; on bringing tax-sharing equality and justice to the provinces; on increasing aid for education and expanded social security for all Canadians.

"Behind all of these particular policies is an attitude of mind toward people, toward resources, toward government itself."

And even in an age when governments tend to spread their activities over men's affairs, "it is the Liberal attitude which will draw a line and say so far and no further can you go without endangering a free society itself."

In outlining the Liberals' proposals before his television audience, Mr. Pearson questioned whether in fact there was a "Conservative" approach to Canada's problems "when personality dominates policy" in the Conservative party.

NO DIVINE GIFT

Historically, the Conservative leader in his many speeches, promising so many exciting things to so many men, may well cause you to ask whether the Conservatism of his party has not been changed. But is this the true voice of Conservatism or merely that of the present leader?

"Surely nothing could be more remote from the hard-headed realistic core of the Conservative party than the oracular fervor and the circus crusades that mark certain Conservative public performances in this election."

Mr. Diefenbaker talked of visions of the future. Mr. Pearson said he did not pretend to be a prophet. He had no divine gift to state with certainty what the future will bring.

"But I do know — and you know — that no land on this globe has a brighter destiny under Providence than ours. I know also that there can be no greater pride and honor for any Canadian than to be called to advance that destiny by taking his full responsibility in helping to make Canada great in all the things that matter."

"In that spirit, Liberalism has fought this campaign and in that spirit — with the support of Liberal-minded Canadians — I believe we shall win it."

Former prime minister St. Laurent tossed a lariat for the Liberals Monday night with an open letter urging support for Lester B. Pearson to restore "the stability and growth that the Diefenbaker government has not been able to maintain."

Because of his health, the 76-year-old retired Liberal leader has spent most of the campaign on vacation in Florida, where he still is.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our Father in heaven, we would unite in thanksgiving for our parents. For the guidance of fathers and mothers in our earlier years, for their teaching and example, for their long patience and forgiveness, we praise Thee. To the living may we show our devotion as it be too late. May we cherish in loving memory those who have finished their course on earth. God of our fathers, be the God of their succeeding race. Amen.

CCF Leader Blasts Tory 'Deception'

TORONTO (CP) — CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell returned to active campaigning Monday night with charges of deception and betrayal against the Progressive Conservative government.

An estimated 2,500 persons packed Massey Hall nearly to capacity for the last CCF rally in this area before the March 31 federal election.

They cheered the 69-year-old former school teacher when he said: "My chest is cleared up. My heart is in good shape."

For Mr. Coldwell, it was his first platform appearance since he returned to Ottawa from Western Canada March 14 for a rest. He suffered a heart attack last year and earlier in this year's campaign was forced to cancel engagements due to a chest ailment.

HITS PIPELINE "DEAL"

He spoke forcefully for more than an hour, mainly on unemployment and the government's failure to correct "the nefarious deal" in pipeline speculation which was criticized by the Conservatives while they were in opposition in 1956.

He cited what he said were huge profits made by a Ralph Farris of Vancouver and Frank McMahon of Calgary and said that Toronto consumers would find the profits reflected in inflated gas rates when the pipeline reaches here from the West.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's claim that the government has launched a $1,000,000,000 public works program to beat unemployment is "outright deception to achieve a political end."

He said "the total expected increase in capital expenditures by the federal government and the provincial governments together is less than 10 per cent of what Mr. Diefenbaker has implied is the new federal public works program."

Dutch Cheer Royal Pair

AMSTERDAM (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth and Queen Juliana, Europe's only two women sovereigns, kissed each other on both cheeks today when the British monarch arrived on a three-day state visit to the Netherlands.

The two queens embraced with broad smiles as Elizabeth, accompanied by Prince Philip, set foot on the landing stage here from the royal yacht Britannia.

Tens of thousands of cheering citizens were on the streets to greet the first British royal visitors to Holland in three centuries.

Jet Pilot Killed During Display

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — A Dutch Thunderstreak jet plane taking part in the display in honor of Queen Elizabeth crashed today, killing the pilot, The Netherlands Air Force announced.

The air force said the pilot had to leave the formation of 84 jet fighters which flew over Amsterdam because of "some trouble."

He tried to return to his base at Eindhoven, but the plane crashed as he was about to land.

'Gloom-Doom' Doctrine Hit By Diefenbaker

HALIFAX (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker says Canada's trade and employment picture is brightening under his Progressive Conservative government.

He emphasized that theme in two speeches Monday night, one over a national television network and the other to a capacity audience of nearly 2,200 in a downtown theatre.

He said the Liberal "doctrine of gloom and doom" is that Canada's export trade is declining. "Why don't they tell the Canadian people that Canada's export trade last year was the largest in history?"

DEFICIT CUT

In the first two months of this year the trade deficit—excess of imports over exports—had been cut by $100,000,000. Mr. Diefenbaker gave no details. The two-month trade deficit a year ago was $140,200,000.

"We have increased our export trade in the face of great international difficulties and of a business recession in the United States, where there are over 5,000,000 unemployed."

He said Canadian unemployment "arose directly as a result of the tight-money policy of the last government, carried on too long."

"We're over the peak of unemployment as a result of our policies and I can see light ahead—employment reasonable and complete in the next few months."

Arrow Jet In Thunderous Aerial Bow

TORONTO (CP) — A huge white jet interceptor which could become Canada's chief defence weapon against enemy attack darted through blue skies over nearby Malton Airport today on its maiden flight.

The CF-105 Arrow, costliest aircraft ever built in Canada, took off with a thunderous roar that shook buildings. It landed 35 minutes later on schedule.

Veteran test pilot Jan Zurauskowski took the delta-wing Arrow to 8,000 feet while two "chase planes" photographed its flight characteristics.

Hundreds of people lined roads around the airport to watch the flight. Many were workers from the nearby Avro Aircraft Limited plant where the Arrow was designed and built in three years at a cost of $200,000,000.

18 MONTHS PREPARATION

Although the Arrow is capable of speeds up to 1,200 miles an hour, Zurauskowski, Polish-born Second World War pilot who spent 18 months preparing for the flight, was under instructions to keep the plane under 400 miles an hour.

Watchers saw the Arrow shoot down the runway on take-off at more than 200 miles an hour and climb sharply. It circled the airport and cut away, closely trailed by an RCAF Sabre and an Avro CF-100.

Fire and crash trucks stood by as the 30-ton Arrow returned at its 200-mile-an-hour landing speed. It sped past the trucks, then released a parachute brake to cut the speed.

The Arrow was powered by twin J-75 jet engines produced in the United States. Later they will be replaced by new Iroquois engines developed by Avro's sister company, Orenda Engines Limited.

Students Picket U.S. Embassy In Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters) — University students demonstrated outside the American Embassy here today against "foreign intervention" in Indonesian affairs and shouted "Seato go to hell."

Seato is the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. The students sent a resolution to American Ambassador Howard P. Jones condemning foreign intervention and demanding that the United States stop American-made arms being delivered to central Sumatran rebels.

Jones told the students the U.S. has no intention of interfering in Indonesian affairs.

TITLE FIGHT ON RADIO AT 8

Starting at 8 from Chicago the fight will be broadcast on CJVI (900), CBU (600), and KIRO (710).

Red Summit Price Too High—Dulles

U.S. Secretary Puts Cold Water On Latest Plan

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today flatly rejected Moscow terms for a summit meeting as far too high a price for the free world to pay.

"The Soviet price, if paid, would mean that the United States would 'lose its shirt' even before a summit parley were called," Dulles told a news conference.

Dulles said Soviet notes regarding a summit meeting are becoming increasingly harsh. If these notes are a preview of a summit parley, Dulles said, it would be better not to have any East-West conference at the summit. But he did not entirely rule out a summit meeting—if Moscow lowers its price tag.

DEMANDS REPEATED

In a note delivered Monday to the United States, Moscow held firm on its previous demands on a summit meeting. These demands previously had been rejected by the United States. The Soviets called for a preliminary foreign ministers conference next month which would only arrange topics, participants, time and place for a summit meeting. The Soviets ruled out any real advance discussion of basic issues dividing East and West. The United States holds that such discussion is a vital preliminary to a summit meeting.

Dulles told newsmen that the Soviets are trying to exact a terribly high political price as a condition to having a summit parley. Asked whether this price is "too high as it now stands," Dulles said flatly that it is too high.

NO ADVANCE MADE

And the secretary said that Monday's Soviet note failed to advance prospects for a summit meeting.

Reading from a prepared statement, Dulles listed four Soviet "price tags" as follows: treating Eastern European satellite governments and Western sovereign states on the same basis; accepting the "legitimacy of the Eastern German puppet regime"; "acquiescence in the continued division of Germany"; and ending four-power responsibility to re-unify Germany.

Dulles also said the Soviets are trying "further to weaken the United Nations," and to formulate items for a summit meeting in such a way that "virtually every item—nine out of 11 — implies acceptance of a basic Soviet thesis that the Western powers reject."

Dulles said he believes the Soviets are still willing to negotiate further in order to have a summit meeting. But if the latest Soviet note is an ultimatum, he said the outlook for a top-level meeting is dark.

Pearson Plan Worthy of Talks Dulles Comments

WASHINGTON (CP)—State Secretary Dulles said today Lester B. Pearson's suggestion that the United States negotiate directly with Russia after working out a careful plan, and policy with its allies would place a very heavy responsibility on the U.S.

He told his weekly press conference that the proposal advanced by the Canadian Liberal leader was something the NATO countries would have to talk over. It was something he found difficult to comment on.

He said he would not slam the door on such unilateral negotiations, but he suggested they would place a heavy responsibility on his country.

Pearson said last week that he does not believe a summit meeting would be as effective as diplomatic negotiations in settling East-West differences. But if a summit conference were held, "it should be confined to the United States and Russia, with the former having previously discussed with its NATO allies the policies to be put forward."

SECOND WHEAT SALE TO REDS

WINNIPEG (CP)—Sale of a second cargo of Canadian wheat to Communist China was confirmed on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange here today.

HE'S NO STUFFED COUGAR

This snarling, 70-pound B.C. cougar "kitten" is posing a problem for the men of the RCAF's 432 (Cougar) Squadron at Bagotville, Que. It was shipped there over the weekend by rival fighter crews from 409 Squadron at Comox. The eastern airmen had only asked for a stuffed cougar to decorate their ready room, but Comox decided to go one better. Besides the housing problem, the kitten demands a chicken a day for food.

Victorians Draw Starters In $140,000 Irish Sweep

Two Victorians have a chance to win $140,000 in the Irish Hospitals Sweepstake on the Grand National steeplechase on Saturday.

They drew starters in the race.

One ticket, on Richardstown, a 100-to-1 shot, is held by Mrs. V. H. V. Sheppard, 1857 Bowker Place. She used the non-descript name of "Trudy" — the name of her cat.

Another ticket on Limber Hill, also a 100-to-1 shot, is held by a person with the non-descript name Goldmine, not yet identified.

Three other Victorians have drawn non-starters and will each get $1,584.

They are: Mrs. E. Profit, 2260 Dunlevy, who drew Vigor under the non-descript name "Carless."

"Old Soke," unidentified, who drew non-runner Ontario.

"Dorothy Ethel," unidentified, drawing the non-runner Richardstown.

The sweep this year reached a new high in prize money with $7,540,000 being divided into 22 separate pools.

A ticket on the winner is worth $140,000, second $56,000 and third $28,000.

Tickets held throughout B.C. include the following:

Skatealong non-runner: TPL 38593, Will Do, Vancouver.

Star Near Collapse At Mike Todd's Rite

CHICAGO (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor, on the verge of collapse, threw herself upon the coffin of her husband, Mike Todd, before his funeral services today.

She screamed wildly in grief as she approached the family plot in Waldheim cemetery for simple services of the Jewish faith.

Todd, 30, and three companions were killed Saturday in an airplane crash.

The actress' feet never touched the ground as she was borne from her limousine to the graveside by her brother,

Howard Taylor, and her physician, Dr. Fredford Kenner.

BROTHER OBJECTED

Todd's older brother, Carl Goldbogen, 61, a taxi driver, started screaming when the funeral party entered the cemetery.

Carl, who had been estranged from his brother, Mike, since 1938, objected to the presence of Richard Hanley, Todd's executive secretary, at the family gathering.

When others tried to quiet him, he shouted: "Throw me out. I dare you to throw me out. I will not be here while Hanley is here. I know I'm only poor Carl."

Finally, his brother, Frank, talked quietly and earnestly to him and he replied, "I'll do it for you Frank."

Survivors of the noted movie and stage producer, following his expressed wishes, brought his remains to Waldheim cemetery in suburban Forest Park. He had asked, they said, to be buried near his father, Rabbi Chaim Goldbogen.

AUSTRALIA DENIES SEEKING QUEEN MOTHER, VICE REGENT

CANBERRA, Australia (Reuters) — A government spokesman denied today as "completely untrue" a Sydney newspaper story that Australia and Canada are fighting behind the scenes to have the Queen Mother as governor-general.

The Sydney Sun in a story from its London correspondent says sources close to the Palace said the Queen Mother is almost certain to be next governor-general of one of the countries.

The newspaper says Canadians are pressing their right on seniority grounds.

The correspondent says "Palace circles know that the Queen Mother herself is anxious for such a Dominion posting" but "has not expressed preference for any Dominion."

(From Times News Services)

ROQUEBRUNE, France—Sir Winston Churchill appeared today to have all but recovered from a return of lung trouble. His local physician said a few weeks of good weather would make him "a very well man."

Dr. David Roberts of Monte Carlo, a Welshman who looks after Churchill when he is visiting the Riviera, described his famous patient as having suffered a "mild recurrence of a former illness that has been passed off."

He said the 83-year-old statesman is "in very good shape, eating well and is a very happy man." Furthermore, he added, Churchill once more is smoking his famous cigars.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. Prince Aly Khan, Pakistan's chief United Nations delegate, gave a big diplomatic reception Monday night celebrating his country's republic day. It was his first public party since he arrived in New York to take up his new duties.

LONDON — Philosopher Bertrand Russell said Monday night it is "absolutely insane fanaticism" to prefer destruction by nuclear bombs to submission to a hostile nation.

"If the Communists conquered the world it would be very unpleasant for a while but not for ever," the 86-year-old Nobel Prize winner said in a filmed interview on the independent television network. He added: "But if the human race is wiped out, that is the end."

PARIS — Friends of the Marquis de Cuevas and retired ballet dancer Serge Lifar sought a face-saving compromise today to head off a duel between the two. They were afraid someone would get hurt.

The only result was a postponement from dawn today when the 72-year-old marquis and the 52-year-old choreographer were to have met in the woods somewhere on Paris outskirts.

"My Spanish blood will help me in the fight," the marquis, a former Chilean and now an American citizen, said. "I'll kill him."

Lifar, depending on his greater agility, said he would authorize the older marquis to wear armor "if the old man is afraid."

HALIFAX—Mrs. John Diefenbaker received medical treatment Monday for sharp muscular pains in her back but kept an appointment as guest of honor at a public reception.

A member of the prime minister's staff said Mrs. Diefenbaker has been advised to use crutches for a couple of days to help ease the discomfort. He said the pain apparently has no connection with a slipped disc she suffered some time ago.

NEW YORK — The New York State tax commission filed a $5,590 tax warrant against Judy Garland for alleged unpaid 1952 state income taxes. The actress was listed in the warrant as owing $4,678 in unpaid taxes plus interest of $912. She now is appearing in a Brooklyn restaurant.

PARIS — The Jules Verne Museum said it will have a Mike Todd Room in honor of the producer of "Around the World in 80 Days," based on Verne's novel.

Cabinet Group Completes Study; To Make Report

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States is expected shortly to impose further restrictions on imports of crude oil from Canada and other oil-producing countries.

A cabinet committee set up by President Eisenhower to review current import restrictions has just about completed its work and observers here say there is every expectation it will recommend a further reduction in oil imports.

Eisenhower is expected to accept the committee's recommendations.

There is no immediate indication when the new restrictions will come into force but some sources suggested the new program might be announced this week.

The government initiated a voluntary oil import program last July, asking U.S. imports to reduce shipments coming into all areas of the United States east of the Rocky Mountains.

Canadian shipments, which enter the U.S. at the west coast, were largely unaffected until Jan. 1, when the administration extended the restrictions to the Pacific coast region. Under the program, Canadian imports were reduced to 64,000 barrels a day from their 1957 daily average of 81,700 barrels.

The state department last month rejected a Canadian diplomatic protest over the extension of the reduction to Canadian supplies.

Hoffa Threat To Country, Say Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rackets investigating committee said today James R. Hoffa, president of the teamsters union, is a betrayer of labor and "dangerous to the country."

In a report prepared for the Senate, the committee described Hoffa as a man with a lust for power who has built "a hoodlum empire" in his giant union. It termed Dave Beck, Hoffa's ally and predecessor, a man who could not resist temptation to engage in "thievery" of the union's funds.

And it accused Frank W. Brewster, west coast teamster leader and a lieutenant to both Hoffa and Beck, of involvement in a thwarted "plot to control vice" in Portland, Ore., through crooked deals with politicians and racketeers.

"The stench of corruption permeates many" in the teamsters high command, said the committee headed by Senator John McClellan (Dem., Ark.). More than half the bulky overall text was devoted to the teamsters.

Tory Makes New Charges On Car Sales

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ernie Broome, Progressive Conservative candidate for Vancouver South, produced at an election meeting Monday night a letter from a United States automobile firm refusing a Communist Chinese order addressed to its Canadian subsidiary.

Mr. Broome said the letter was a photostatic copy of one sent by the U.S. head office of the Ford Motor Company to East-West Import-Export Limited, a Vancouver firm which promotes Canadian trade in the Far East.

Mr. Broome said the letter was dated Feb. 12, 1957, and this date was important since Liberal Leader Pearson said last month he is disturbed that the U.S. government is moving to prevent such sales and that the Canadian government should protest its action.

This particular sale was prevented at a time when Mr. Pearson was external affairs minister, Mr. Broome said. "This is just another indication of the subservient attitude taken by the Liberals in their dealings with the U.S. government."

He said the Progressive Conservative government is opening up trade with Communist China and formal recognition is "just a matter of time."

The letter was first made public in Windsor, Ont., last week by Canadian director George

ERNE BROOME

Burt of the United Auto Workers union. Mr. Broome said it quoted U.S. state department embargo regulations on Red Chinese trade and said these applied to Canadian subsidiaries.

In Ottawa Saturday a government trade official said the government had not been involved in the reported deal.

M. W. Sharpe, deputy minister of trade and commerce, said no application for export permits for cars had been received. He said the federal government would probably grant a permit if approached.

Guerrilla War Mapped by Rebels To Halt Gov't Army in Sumatra

MEDAN, Sumatra (AP) — Government troops fanning out from this north Sumatra town appear to have checked the spread of Indonesia's civil war in north Sumatra. The rebels threaten to counterattack, but they face a rough road back to Medan.

Their initial advantage lost, the insurgents' best hope now seems to be to extend guerrilla action which could tie up Jakarta forces in a long costly action.

2,000 Tickets Sold On Kinsmen Bingo

More than 2,000 tickets in two days have been sold for the ninth Victoria Kinsmen bingo game at Memorial Arena, April 14, bingo chairman Jack Philion said today.

Tickets are on sale at Eaton's. A list of $10,000 in prizes is headed by a $3,200 new car, the fifteenth to be given away by the Kinsmen.

Those are the conclusions reached after a four-day trip by bus, car, speedboat and foot from the rebel capital of Bukittinggi back and forth across "battle" lines three times.

Both sides apparently have been disappointed by developments in Medan, which went over to the rebels nine days ago after the town garrison mutinied, then was recaptured by the loyalists.

The outbreak in Medan cost Jakarta money, time and troops which could have been used to invade rebel hotbeds in central Sumatra. Many of the loyalists are still tied up at Medan.

For the rebels, any civil war was better than none, but they had hoped to take over all north Sumatra.

As the situation now stands, the front lines extend beyond the resort town of Prapat on Lake Toba south of Medan. The loyalists took over that rebel stronghold last week and moved in with artillery.

Rebel informants said the leader of the Medan mutiny, Maj. Boyke Nainn Golan, had headed for the hills southeast of here with remnants of his force.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Skier Survives Day, Night In Cold, Rain on Mountain

(From CP Dispatches) VANCOUVER (CP) — A resourceful German-born skier, clad only in a thin shirt, trousers and ski boots, survived a day and a night on chilly Mount Seymour, across Burrard Inlet from here.

Eric Krueger, 28, was spotted just before nightfall Monday by Jack Atkinson and Hugh Schmidberger. They constituted one of three parties which had been looking for Krueger.

The skier was taken down the mountain to North Vancouver General Hospital, and said he felt fine except for being cold and hungry.

A young Scottish hiker died on the 4,000-foot mountain northeast of here last year when he became lost.

Krueger was missing for 28 hours. He said he "tumbled beside a fire Sunday night after falling to rendezvous with two ski companions, and walked in circles from noon Monday."

He said he was following a well-established ski trail Sunday when it faded to a single ski mark. He lost his glasses as he swept farther down the slope and became lost.

Krueger said "I knew then that I might not get out until the next day. So instead of getting too tired I concentrated on finding firewood."

He found dry wood at the foot of a bluff, settled down beside a roaring fire hoping it would attract rescuers.

About 3 a.m. it began to rain. He had not eaten since noon Sunday and had only five cigarettes left. Still with his skis, he hiked downhill in the snow Monday morning.

WORKER KILLED BURNABY — A Vancouver workman was killed when run over by an overhead crane at the Dominion Bridge Co. premises here Monday.

RCMP said Stefano Castaro,

38, was attaching sheet meal to a building about 30 feet from the ground.

They said he was standing on the track when he crane backed up and ran over him.

Mr. Castaro was an employee of Westeel Products.

FERRY SERVICE SET

VANCOUVER — The head of Northland Navigation Limited said Monday night the company will take over the passenger-freight run to central coast points "with or without government subsidies."

Union Steamships Limited abandoned the coast run last January.

Captain H. J. Terry, president

of Northland, said: "We are going into it with or without government subsidies. Ottawa asked us some time ago if we would be interested. We were, but we haven't heard from them since."

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

KELOWNA — Mrs. Marion Pearce, 44, of Kelowna, is slated to be tried on attempted murder charge at spring sittings at Vernon next month.

She is charged in the shooting of her 21-year-old son with a .22-calibre rifle following an argument in their East Kelowna cabin last September.

The youth has since recovered.

The roaring blast that propels it skyward burns, pits and fuses the metal exhaust... at top speed, air friction heats the special alloy of its outer skin to a cherry-red. It travels at thousands of miles per hour to a pre-determined target, accurately guided by its electronic pilot. It's a strategic military weapon... and much, much more. The guided missile is actually a step to the stars. To withstand the high temperature, acceleration and shock encountered in such flights, scientists have had to develop instruments and controls employing new and unusual materials; for example, very high purity metals. Cominco supplies industry throughout the world with INDIUM, refined to a purity of 99.999% — a valuable metal in electronics. It also makes other super pure metals... ZINC, 99.9995%... LEAD and BISMUTH,

THEY JUST DON'T CARE MUCH ANYMORE!

Fans Carefree as Elvis Drafted

By DINAH KERR

Elvis Presley joined the U.S. army Monday—and three of his local fans aren't shook up at all.

The mumbler from Memphis could put his hair in a French knot and join the Foreign Legion for all they seem to care.

Even the ex-president of the Presley fan club could only say, "Well, he has to go."

"I still like him a lot," Pat Peters said in a disinterested "but-I-like-Pat-Boone-better" voice.

And the hair-raising news that Elvis had shaved off his sideburns, she greeted with a mild, "Oh-h-h... not very cute."

A 14-year-old student at S. J. Willis Junior High School, Pat organized the fan club last year. It broke up in the spring because "nobody was interested enough to get out to the meetings."

Two club members, Linda, 14, and Genevieve Marsh, 19, admitted today "it doesn't make much difference" to them whether Elvis dons khaki or not.

"If he makes any more records, we'll buy them," Genevieve, HMC Dockyard clerk, said.

Linda has even adjusted well to her hero's new hairdo. "It doesn't look too bad," she said.

Crazy, eh?

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Victoria Prayer Healing and Study Group will meet at Christ Church Cathedral's Memorial Hall Wednesday at 3 p.m.

Dr. D. E. Alcorn, 745 Yates Street, was elected president of the Liberal Religious Fellowship (Unitarian) at a recent meeting.

Also elected as officers for the coming year: H. V. O'Reilly, vice-president; Oswald Abbott, secretary; and Clare Yarwood, treasurer.

Saanich council Monday decided it will try to arrange a meeting with conciliation officer W. T. McLaughlin and the municipal firemen's union next Monday at 7 p.m. The union and council are involved in a wage dispute.

Finance committee will meet municipal employees the following night at 7:30 p.m. to discuss a 1958 contract.

A St. Joseph's hospital request for financial assistance in building its proposed addition was turned down Monday by Saanich council with "regret."

Council pointed out it is heavily committed to the Royal Jubilee Hospital building program "to the extent of $180,000."

Saanich council as a whole will sit as a court of revision to hear ratepayers' objections to levies assessed for local improvements.

May 27 it will hear objections on waterworks bylaws. June 10, paving and drainage projects will be considered. Both meetings will be held in the Royal Oak Women's Institute Hall.

Vancouver alderman, Halford E. Wilson has been named by Victoria firemen as their delegate to a conciliation board which will rule on current wage negotiations with the city.

City representative, announced earlier, is John E. Goldring, View Royal. A chairman will be chosen at a later date.

Donald Marlow Champion, 19, of 1737 Hampshire, was fined $50 in police court today for consuming liquor in a public place.

John Stack, Work Point, was fined $15 for being a minor in possession of liquor.

Support Company, 1st Battalion, PPCLI, fired their 106 mm mobile anti-tank weapon at Albert Head between 10 and 11 a.m. today, the first time the weapon has been fired here by the battalion.

Firing, under company commander Major E. D. McPhail, was at targets towed at sea.

The annual spring show of the Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Garden Society will be held at the Crystal Garden on April 11 and 12, Mrs. J. H. Hamilton, secretary, announced today.

James Smith, Brentwood Reserve, was fined $10 and $10.50 costs in Sidney RCMP court Monday for being in possession of liquor on the reserve.

Seventy dozen daffodils have been air-expressed to Toronto by the Victoria branch, Canadian Restaurant Association, for decorating tables at the association's opening convention luncheon at the Royal York Hotel.

Several Victoria restaurant owners are attending the meeting.

Meeting Tonight to Fight For Craigflower Peninsula

See earlier story on page 17.

A group of city organizations representing several hundred citizens will meet tonight to discuss a plan of action to save Craigflower Peninsula on Portage Inlet from becoming a housing site.

Woodlands Estate Ltd., owners of the property, have an application before the government for permission to build 20 homes on the site.

A government decision is expected within a month.

The organizations are expected to recommend to the government the purchase of the property for development into a natural park and picnic site.

Police Asking Conciliation Of Pay Dispute

Follow Action Of City Firemen

Victoria city police have joined city firemen and public health nurses in seeking settlement of current wage disputes by conciliation board decision.

Mayor Percy Scurreh, chairman of the city police commission, said today repeated meetings between the police union and the commission made no progress toward agreement.

NO COUNTER-OFFER

He said the police demands had not been met with any counter-offer by the commission. Police bargaining committee reportedly asked a boost of over 21 per cent.

The mayor's statement indicates the police union was the only union of civic employees not offered the 5.22 per cent increase accepted earlier by inside employees.

The offer was made to the firemen, who are paid within a dollar of police wage scales. However, negotiations with police are carried out by the police commission. All other civic unions deal with city council, through city manager C. C. Wyatt.

Conciliation board decisions are binding on police and firemen under the Municipal Act. Under the present salary scale, a first-class constable receives $359 a month.

Mayor Scurreh said the outcome of the various conciliation board deliberations may mean the difference between holding the tax line and a mill rate increase.

"I am cautiously optimistic that we will be able to budget without an increase in taxes this year—but a great deal will depend upon results of conciliation, and clarification of school costs."

Greater Victoria municipalities are still in the dark concerning what share of area school costs will be accepted by the provincial government. Grants which will be paid toward cost of teacher wages, have not been disclosed.

ON BILLETING

Aldermen Asked To Lead Way

City aldermen Thursday will be asked to "set an example" in extending personal hospitality to out-of-towners coming here for the May 19, Victoria Day parade and celebrations.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood, chairman of Greater Victoria Celebrations Association, said he will propose that members register to provide billets.

GVCA has asked residents to take in 500 paraders who will be coming here with bands and drill teams from points throughout the Pacific Northwest. So far response has been slow.

The committee has suggested accommodation, bed-and-breakfast, be offered free of charge. Registrations are taken at GVCA offices in City Hall.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: William George Dauphin, 613 Avalon, $75 for driving while under suspension.

Granville Henderson, 4026 Zinnia, $15 for driving with inadequate brakes.

John Jayes, 2967 Henderson, $25 for driving without a licence.

Marvin Martyn, 1044 Redfern, $10 for driving through a red light.

In Sidney RCMP court Monday:

Jean Pauline Oxy, Sidney, $15 and $3.50 costs for speeding over 30.

Frank Cummings, Keating, $10 and $3.50 costs for operating a trailer without a licence.

In city police court Monday: John Martinos, 2442 Eastdowne, $10 for failing to have current licence plate on a trailer.

Herbert Stewart Baird, 515 Sumas, $35 for speeding over 30, $25 for failing to heed a siren and $15 for failing to have a handbrake.

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, MARCH 25, 1958 13

Pickets Withdrawn By Electricians Here

Three-Week Strike To End Wednesday

Picket lines were withdrawn from B.C. Electric and Hume & Rumble Ltd. installations here today as the electricians' strike came to its end.

A Vancouver report said that the 1,500 strikers, including 175 in Victoria, would return to work Wednesday.

Final settlement of the wage dispute will be made through arbitration by a supreme court judge to be appointed by Mr. Justice Sherwood Lett.

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers said that under an agreement reached Sunday, a conciliation board recommendation will be a guaranteed "floor" for the arbitration.

LINEMEN KEY GROUP

The board recommended wage increases ranging from 8 per cent for unskilled workers to 19 per cent for linemen—key group in the dispute.

The union struck three weeks ago for increases ranging from 20 to 40 per cent.

Linemen earn $2,41½ to $2,49 an hour at present.

All other issues in the dispute—overtime and "rain-time" provisions—have been settled by negotiation at meetings since

No power interruptions occurred here during the strike. BCE crews of supervisory and non-union technical personnel kept generators humming at manned substations.

The break in the dispute came as the possibility arose last week that the IBEW would extend its picket lines against bus and gas services operated by BCE.

Jack Driscoll, business agent for the IBEW's Victoria local, said a membership meeting Sunday night approved the basis for the settlement.

Leaving for a Vancouver meeting at press time, he said he could not confirm that Victoria electricians would return to work Wednesday until he had consulted with the Vancouver union officials.

However, James Drinkwater, chairman of the local strike committee, Sunday said that the men would return to work in "a day or two."

CARPENTERS' CONFUSION

Special Meeting On Gov't House

A special meeting of all workers employed at the Government House project was called for this afternoon after 13 carpenters crossed teamster picket lines to return to work this morning.

Vancouver Island Building Trades Council scheduled the meeting, presumably to resolve the confusion that saw another 25 carpenters and about 35 laborers stay away from the job.

All 13 carpenters—including the 17 carpenters—were to attend the meeting. Union officials would not comment on the meeting or the carpenters' split preceding it.

TURNUED AWAY

A spokesman for the contractor, John Laing and Son (Canada) Ltd., said that several more carpenters arrived for work this morning but turned away when they saw the picket line still on duty.

All but six of the workers refused to cross the picket line Monday after "on strike" placards were substituted for the "lockout" signs carried all last week by members of the Vancouver Teamsters Union Local 213.

The six arrived for work before the pickets were set up on Monday but they remained at their jobs throughout the day.

Although no Vancouver teamsters are employed on the $1,000,000 construction project, the mainland union set up a picket line because the John Laing firm is a member of the Heavy Construction Association of B.C., which is involved in a strike-lockout dispute with the union.

FLIER SAFE HERE WITH PLANE AS BIG SEARCH ORGANIZED

The pilot of a small plane rested quietly aboard his craft in the Inner Harbor overnight as the B.C. Search and Rescue Organization prepared to launch a large-scale search.

The pilot, Royal Large of Corvallis, Ore., was on his way from Alaska to his home.

He landed at Alert Bay Monday afternoon for fuel, filed a flight plan saying he would arrive in Victoria at 6:50 p.m.

When he had not reported to Patricia Bay Airport at 8 p.m., he was reported as overdue.

Early this morning aircraft were poised for a 10 a.m. take-off to search for the plane.

Mr. Large heard wireless transmission reporting him missing, and telephoned RCMP here all was well.

He had spent the night moored at the Evans, Coleman, Johnson Wharf, and had simply neglected to report his arrival.

Rebuilding Job For Shelbourne

Saanich Approves $100,000 Plan; Start Possible in Two Months

Reconstruction of Shelbourne Street, doubling the road width for eight blocks at a total cost of more than $100,000, was approved by Saanich council Monday night.

The program, major road job planned by the municipality this year, will start in about two months if it hurdles all legal obstacles.

The plan calls for widening of the road from Cedar Hill Cross Road to North Dairy at the city boundary.

A petition against it signed by 50 per cent or more of the frontage owners would shelve the program. Council ordered the required advertisement of intent, giving the property owners 30 days to object.

About $89,000 of the cost will be paid by the municipality.

The road will be widened from its present 20 feet to 30 feet. Curb and gutters will be built and a storm sewer installed to eliminate a roadside ditch.

Property owners will share the cost of the curbs, gutters, drainage and a side strip of asphalt if the project goes ahead.

Government Offers Help With Merger

Full co-operation with Victoria and Saanich in merger investigation was offered by Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black Monday.

Mayor Percy Scurreh and Reeve Arthur Ash said following a meeting with the minister, the government would provide all helpful information available.

A full report will be made to the special committee of Saanich and Victoria councils, "as soon as possible," Reeve Ash stated.

Minors Fined For Having Liquor

Naval seamen Russell Jones and Carl Dander each were fined $15 in city police court Monday when they pleaded guilty to charges of being minors in possession of liquor.

Sloan Continues As Provincial Administrator

Former Chief Justice Gordon Sloan, new government forests adviser, is continuing to serve as provincial administrator.

The federal cabinet, which appoints the administrator to act in the absence from the province of the lieutenant-governor, confirmed Mr. Sloan's appointment when he resigned from the bench last December.

His one-year commission expires March 31, and it is considered likely Mr. Sloan will be re-named.

The administrator signs orders-in-council passed by the provincial cabinet when the lieutenant-governor is away, and generally performs his functions. He serves without a stipend.

Until a few years ago, the administrator was appointed only when the lieutenant-governor was absent. Now, however, the appointment is on a year-to-year basis.

Nelson Garage Sold to Horwoods

Louis Nelson Ltd., which has operated the garage at 810 Johnson for 29 years, has sold the business to Horwood Bros., who have operated a service station and repair shop at Government and Herald for 14 years.

The new owners will take over the business March 31.

Louis Nelson started servicing cars for Victoria owners 47 years ago, and was later joined by his sons, Albin and John. Horwood Bros. owners are Clifford and Gordon Horwood.

Price of the transaction was undisclosed.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me where I could get a detailed road map of North America showing secondary as well as main highways? J.W.

A. We can't locate one locally. There is a map of Canadian and northern U.S. roads which you can obtain free of charge from the B.C. Government Travel Bureau. A map showing all secondary roads in North America would be an impossible size. But a reputable and accurate book-map setup which would provide all the data you require can be obtained from the American Hotel Registry Co., 226-232 West Ontario St., Chicago 10, Ill. It is called Leaky's Hotel-Motel Guide and Travel Atlas; cost, $6. Blaney's Travel Service Ltd., Government Street, have a copy if you care to take a look at it before ordering.

Magic Mitts Make Polishing Your Silver a Simple Job

By PENNY SAVER

Say now! Isn't that something? No fuss... no muss at all. Just think—now you can clean your silverware without mucking about with gooey cleaning pastes, pots of solution or even soda in aluminum containers. All you do is slip on a pair of magic gloves. They are soft, soft mittens that will polish your silver to gleaming brightness without the use of a cleaning fluid, because the cleaning power is right in the mittens. I told you it was something! Get a pair of these magic mittens tomorrow for $1.98.

We've been having the grandest sailing weather lately. Which means it's time to don the old cableknit sweater and get into the act.

S-o-o-o... I'm ready to tell you about the cableknit sweaters, girls. Ones I saw today looked as though they'd been handknitted. I think it's because they are done in fairly big (though firm) stitch. Made in Scotland, you can buy them with turtle neck and long sleeves in colors navy, red, yellow and the popular white. Price per sweater is $12.95.

Some girls don't suit turtle-neck sweaters because they have short necks... so here's the same style sweater, but with a crew neck, just for you. Same price.

Another style sweater in heavy white wool with crew neck sells for $14.95. It is knit in double stitches instead of cableknit and is also very smart.

Something I saw today made me think that young working wives should take note. It was a rotisserie full of young spring chickens just oozing with juice as they gradually roasted to a golden brown.

I couldn't help thinking what a delightful supper for two; one of these young birds would make. Pick one up on your noon hour to take home for hubby's dinner. You pay about $1.59 for it, as the price varies according to size of bird.

Also got the idea that one would make for scrumptious picnic lunching for two. What do you say?

Call me at 2-3131 for names of stores where I shopped today.

On Etiquette

Groom's Parents Are Reception Guests:

We have two sons getting married within two weeks of each other. Both weddings will have catered receptions. We cannot afford to split the expenses with the bride's families. What is expected of us, as we don't wish to do more for one than the other.

Louise Davis Answers: You have no responsibility in sharing any of the expense for the two weddings, and I hope that the parents of the two brides are aware of it. Anyone entertaining with a reception or any other kind of a party bears the expense and should not expect help from anyone else. The bridegroom's parents are guests at a wedding and guests don't pay their way. You will undoubtedly want to give the two couples wedding gifts, but that has nothing to do with the ceremonies or receptions. If you can manage without too much sacrifice to entertain for the two couples in some way within a few days of the weddings, you should allow a certain sum and stick to it. If you think that the bride's parents expect financial help, perhaps you can tactfully let it be known that the bridegroom's parents don't share the expense. A good way to handle the prob-

Junior Shapes—The Chemise in Printed Pattern

The newest heavenly body to orbit around the fashion world is the Chemise... sensationally curved to a junior's figure in Anne Adams Printed Pattern 4779. Slim and streamlined from shoulder to hem, it skips the waist and narrows the hips to suggest rather than define the figure beneath.

Interpreted here in window-pane checks with a lingerie frill at the scooped neckline, the Chemise is the smartest of summer fashions, and simple enough for beginners to sew. The subtle shaping and fit of the silhouette is assured by the use of the Magic-Tab Talon dress-placket zipper in the new longer 14-inch length. This is so easy to apply with the "no-pin, no-baste" method featured in the package.

Among the other spring and summer fabrics appropriate for this easy-sew Printed Pattern are pique, casual cotton knit, fluid silk shantung, textured linen, or crisp cotton.

Printed Pattern 4779 is available in Junior Miss sizes 9, 11, 13, 15, 17. Size 13 dress takes 2½ yards 35-inch fabric; vestee takes ¾ yard.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

As my readers know "Why Grow Old?" does not advocate thinking in terms of years. However, there is information and there are tricks which will add to the health and beauty of the middle-aged woman.

1. Do not wear orange tinted make-up, or be very sure it is right for you, since most complexions tend to sallow some with the years.

2. Do not put rouge over wrinkles and powder very lightly, if any, over them.

3. Use lipstick and eye make-up but do so cleverly, which means subtly and not extremely.

4. Tight curls and shoulder length hair are usually aging. Beware of them.

5. Do not wear too much jewelry (bracelets, earrings, necklaces and pins) all at the same time. I do not know why older women have a tendency to do this. Women of this age must depend on line and color and on being chic for greatest charm in appearance.

6. Do not become careless about your figure and blame it on age.

7. Fight against the tendency to slump as you grow older. The spine shortens and many women allow gravity to win the battle with protruding chins and round shoulders as results. Nothing is so attractive in middle aged and older men and women as good posture. This always gives the illusion of youth. This is one attribute everyone can take down the years.

8. Take exercises regularly but be sure that they are right for you and stop long before you are tired. Of course you must have a physical check-up before beginning.

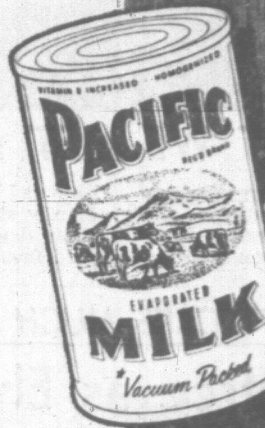

9. Even if you have not done

so before, take short rest periods during the day.

10. Have your breasts examined and a vaginal smear taken for cell examination at least twice a year during these years.

11. You do not need so much food but the kind you eat is of the greatest importance to your health and your looks. Most older folks are deficient in iron, calcium and protein.

Workers to Stay Off Gov't House Job

Some 75 carpenters and laborers are expected to stay away from the Government House construction job Wednesday.

"The men decided the teamsters have a legal picket line on the job," Donald S. Bushell, secretary of the Vancouver Island Building Trades Council, said today after a meeting was held by the men involved. "Under the circumstances, they will respect it."

Mr. Bushell stressed that the decision was made by the men themselves, and not by the building trades council.

EPSOM, Eng. (Reuters)—B.C. schoolboys today lost the fifth game of their British rugby tour, 18-3, at the hands of Epsom College. Each side kicked a penalty goal, but better combination and more direct and confident attack brought Epsom two converted tries before the interval and another in the second half. The B.C. scorer was Ralph Vanderluis of Shawnigan Lake.

Mountie Dog Finds Escapee

VANCOUVER (CP)—RCMP in suburban Burnaby used a tracking dog today to find one of two Oakalla prisoners who escaped from a work party. Spurgeon Stanton, 23, was captured shortly after the escape at 11 a.m. Still free was Jack Robert Manson, 20. He was believed to be in the Deer Lake area of the residential suburbs.

Pearson Hits
'Personality
Cult' of Tories

TORONTO (CP)—Lester B. Pearson says that unlike the Progressive Conservatives, the Liberals have rejected the "cult of personality, whether expressed in terms of dictatorship or demagoguery."

The Liberals, instead of depending on "oracular fervor and circus" crusades, appealed to voters' "essential goodwill and intelligence," the party leader said Monday night in a national television broadcast.

Comparing the two major parties, Mr. Pearson suggested that a political leader had to do more than "rhapsodize about a vision of the future." He had to state clearly his ideas on policy and legislation touching on the lives of all Canadians.

The Liberals had put before the public an election program based on the alleviation of financial suffering among the lower-income families; on bringing tax-sharing equality and justice to the provinces; on increasing aid for education and expanded social security for all Canadians.

"Behind all of these particular policies is an attitude of mind toward people, toward resources, toward government itself."

And even in an age when governments tend to spread their activities over men's affairs, "it is the Liberal attitude which will draw a line and say so far and no further can you go without endangering a free society itself."

In outlining the Liberals' proposals before his television audience, Mr. Pearson questioned

Liberal Doctrine
Blasted by John D.

HALIFAX (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker says Canada's trade and employment picture is brightening under his Progressive Conservative government.

He emphasized that there in two speeches Monday night, one over a national television network and the other to a capacity audience of nearly 2,200 in a downtown theatre.

He said the Liberal "doctrine of gloom and doom" is that Canada's export trade is declining. "Why don't they tell the Canadian people that Canada's export trade last year was the largest in history?"

In the first two months of this year the trade deficit—excess of imports over exports—had been cut by $100,000,000. Mr. Diefenbaker gave no details. The two-month trade deficit a year ago was $140,000,000.

"We have increased our export trade in the face of great international difficulties and of a business recession in the United States, where there are over 5,000,000 unemployed."

He said Canadian unemployment "arose directly as a result of the tight-money policy of the last government, carried on too long."

"We're over the peak of unemployment as a result of our policies and I can see light ahead—employment reasonable and complete in the next few months."

REJECTS MOSCOW TERMS

Summit Price
Too High—Dulles

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today flatly rejected Moscow terms for a summit meeting as far too high a price for the free world to pay.

The Soviet price, if paid, would mean that the United States would "lose its shirt" even before a summit parley were called, Dulles told a news conference.

Dulles said Soviet notes regarding a summit meeting are becoming increasingly harsh. If these notes are a preview of a summit parley, Dulles said, it would be better not to have any East-West conference at the summit. But he did not entirely rule out a summit meeting—if Moscow lowers its price tag.

DEMANDS REPEATED

In a note delivered Monday to the United States, Moscow held firm on its previous demands on a summit meeting. These demands previously had been rejected by the United States. The Soviets called for a preliminary foreign ministers conference next month which would only arrange topics, participants, time and place for a summit meeting. The Soviets ruled out any real advance discussion of basic issues dividing East and West. The United States holds that such discussion is a vital preliminary to a summit meeting.

Dulles told newsmen that the Soviets are trying to exact a terribly high political price as a condition to having a summit parley. Asked whether this price is "too high as it now stands," Dulles said flatly that it is too high.

And the secretary said that Monday's Soviet note failed to

Blasts Tory
'Deception'

TORONTO (CP)—CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell returned to active campaigning Monday night with charges of deception and betrayal against the Progressive Conservative government.

An estimated 2,500 persons packed Massey Hall nearly to capacity for the last CCF rally in this area before the March 31 federal election.

They cheered the 69-year-old former school teacher when he said: "My chest is cleared up. My heart is in good shape."

For Mr. Coldwell, it was his first platform appearance since he returned to Ottawa from Western Canada March 14 for a rest. He suffered a heart attack last year and earlier in this year's campaign was forced to cancel engagements due to a chest ailment.

HITS PIPELINE "DEAL"

He spoke forcefully for more than an hour, mainly on unemployment and the government's failure to correct "the nefarious deal" in pipeline speculation which was criticized by the Conservatives while they were in opposition in 1956.

He cited what he said were huge profits made by a Ralph Farris of Vancouver and Frank McMahon of Calgary and said that Toronto consumers would find the profits reflected in inflated gas rates when the pipeline reaches here from the West.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's claim that the government has launched a $1,000,000,000 public works program to beat unemployment is "outright deception to achieve a political end."

He said "the total expected increase in capital expenditures by the federal government and the provincial governments together is less than 10 per cent of what Mr. Diefenbaker has implied is the new federal public works program."

9 Killed
In Miami
Air CrashPlane Wreckage
Bursts Into Flame

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A Braniff Airlines plane crashed moments after its takeoff for Panama early today with a mighty explosion visible for miles. Nine were killed and 15 survived, many of them badly injured.

Among the dead were several pilots for the airline flying as passengers to take out flights in South America. Passenger casualties included both United States and South American residents. There were no Canadians on the passenger list.

The four-engine DC-7C had been airborne less than a minute before watchers on the ground saw fire spurt from an engine.

A night watchman on duty at a city dump near the swampy scene of the crash saw the plane go down "like a rock." It fell 4½ miles north of Miami International airport.

The dead, dying and injured lay in the wreckage or in ankle-deep mud and water. Rescuers had to push their way through dense brush which kept fire-trucks and ambulances away from the scene.

BURNS FOR HOURS

Helicopters were used to carry the injured to a hospital, where a parking lot was pressed into service as a landing port.

Flames still were roaring into the sky hours after the crash. R. H. Sands, the dump watchman who summoned help but was prevented by underbrush from forcing his way to the scene himself, said it was about 20 minutes before rescue crews arrived.

"Those were the longest 20 minutes I ever spent," he said. "I could hear the passengers yelling for help and there was nothing I could do."

Pete Vigna, 67, American Civil Aeronautics Administration official who had boarded the plane to return to his post in Colombia, suffered only a cut ear.

"The plane was running good until it hit about 1,500 feet," Vigna said. "All of a sudden, the engine next to the fuselage on the right sputtered fire."

"The next thing I knew, the world had fallen out beneath me..."

This snarling, 70-pound B.C. cougar "kitten" is posing a problem for the men of the RCAF's 432 (Cougar) Squadron at Bagotville, Que. It was shipped there over the weekend by rival fighter crews from 409 Squadron at Comox. The eastern airmen had only asked for a stuffed cougar to decorate their ready room, but Comox decided to go one better. Besides the housing problem, the kitten demands a chicken a day for food.

Star Near Collapse
At Mike Todd's Rite

CHICAGO (AP)—Actress Elizabeth Taylor, on the verge of collapse, threw herself upon the coffin of her husband, Mike Todd, before his funeral services today.

She screamed wildly in grief as she approached the family plot in Waldheim cemetery for simple services of the Jewish faith.

Todd, 50, and three companions were killed Saturday in an airplane crash.

BROTHER OBJECTED

Todd's older brother, Carl Goldbogen, 61, a taxi driver, started screaming when the funeral party entered the cemetery.

Carl, who had been estranged from his brother, Mike, since 1938, objected to the presence of Richard Hanley, Todd's executive secretary, at the family gathering.

When others tried to quiet him, he shouted:

"Throw me out. I dare you to throw me out. I will not be here while Hanley is here. I know I'm only poor Carl."

Finally, his brother, Frank, talked quietly and earnestly to him and he replied, "I'll do it for you Frank."

Survivors of the noted movie and stage producer, following his expressed wishes, brought his remains to Waldheim cemetery in suburban Forest Park.

He had asked, they said, to be buried near his father, Rabbi Chaim Goldbogen.

Arrow Jet
In Thunderous
Aerial Bow

TORONTO (CP)—A huge white jet interceptor which could become Canada's chief defence weapon against enemy attack darted through blue skies over nearby Malton Airport today on its maiden flight.

The CF-105 Arrow, costliest aircraft ever built in Canada, took off with a thunderous roar that shook buildings. It landed 35 minutes later on schedule.

Veteran test pilot Jan Zurakowski took the delta-winged Arrow to 8,000 feet while two "chase planes" photographed its flight characteristics.

Hundreds of people lined roads around the airport to watch the flight. Many were workers from the nearby Avro Aircraft Limited plant where the Arrow was designed and built in three years at a cost of $200,000,000.

18 MONTHS PREPARATION — Although the Arrow is capable of speeds up to 1,200 miles an hour, Zurakowski, Polish-born Second World War pilot who spent 18 months preparing for the flight, was under instructions to keep the plane under 400 miles an hour.

Watchers saw the Arrow shoot down the runway on take-off at more than 200 miles an hour and climb sharply. It circled the airport and cut away, closely trailed by an RCAF Sabre and an Avro CF-100.

Fire and crash trucks stood by as the 30-ton Arrow returned at its 200-mile-an-hour landing speed. It sped past the trucks, then released a parachute brake to cut the speed.

The Arrow was powered by twin J-75 jet engines produced in the United States. Later they will be replaced by new Iroquois engines developed by Avro's sister company, Orenda Engines Limited.

AUSTRALIA DENIES SEEKING QUEEN MOTHER, VICE REGENT

CANBERRA, Australia (Reuters) — A government spokesman denied today as "completely untrue" a Sydney newspaper story that Australia and Canada are fighting behind the scenes to have the Queen Mother as governor-general.

The Sydney Sun in a story from its London correspondent says sources close to the Palace said the Queen Mother is almost certain to be next governor-general of one of the countries.

The newspaper says Canadians are pressing their right on seniority grounds.

The correspondent says "Palace circles know that the Queen Mother herself is anxious for such a Dominion posting" but "has not expressed preference for any Dominion."

ROQUEBRUNE, France—Sir Winston Churchill appeared today to have all but recovered from a return of lung trouble. His local physician said a few weeks of good weather would make him "a very well man."

Dr. David Roberts of Monte Carlo, a Welshman who looks after Churchill when he is visiting the Riviera, described his famous patient as having suffered a "mild recurrence of a former illness that has been passed off."

He said the 83-year-old statesman is "in very good shape, eating well and is a very happy man." Furthermore, he added, Churchill once more is smoking his famous cigars.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. Prince Aly Khan, Pakistan's chief United Nations delegate, gave a big diplomatic reception Monday night celebrating his country's republic day. It was his first public party since he arrived in New York to take up his new duties.

LONDON — Philosopher Bertrand Russell said Monday night it is "absolutely insane fanaticism" to prefer destruction by nuclear bombs to submission to a hostile nation.

"If the Communists conquered the world it would be very unpleasant for a while but not for ever," the 86-year-old Nobel Prize winner said in a filmed interview on the independent television network. He added: "But if the human race is wiped out, that is the end."

PARIS — Friends of the Marquis de Cuevas and retired ballet dancer Serge Lifar sought a face-saving compromise today to head off a duel between the two. They were afraid someone would get hurt.

The only result was a postponement from dawn today when the 72-year-old marquis and the 52-year-old choreographer were to have met in the woods somewhere on Paris outskirts.

"My Spanish blood will help me in the fight," the marquis, a former Chilean and now an American citizen said. "I'll kill him."

Lifar, depending on his greater agility, said he would authorize the older marquis to wear armor "if the old man is afraid."

HALIFAX—Mrs. John Diefenbaker received medical treatment Monday for sharp muscular pains in her back but kept an appointment as guest of honor at a public reception.

A member of the prime minister's staff said Mrs. Diefenbaker has been advised to use crutches for a couple of days to help ease the discomfort. He said the pain apparently has no connection with a slipped disc she suffered some time ago.

NEW YORK — The New York State tax commission filed a $5,590 tax warrant against Judy Garland for alleged unpaid 1952 state income taxes. The actress was listed in the warrant as owing $4,678 in unpaid taxes plus interest of $912. She now is appearing in a Brooklyn restaurant.

PARIS—The Jules Verne Museum said it will have a Mike Todd Room in honor of the producer of "Around the World in 80 Days," based on Verne's novel.

Cabinet Group Completes Study; To Make Report

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States is expected shortly to impose further restrictions on imports of crude oil from Canada and other oil-producing countries.

A cabinet committee set up by President Eisenhower to review current import restrictions has just about completed its work and observers here say there is every expectation it will recommend a further reduction in oil imports.

Eisenhower is expected to accept the committee's recommendations.

There is no immediate indication when the new restrictions will come into force but some sources suggested the new program might be announced this week.

The government initiated a voluntary oil import program last July, asking U.S. imports to reduce shipments coming into all areas of the United States east of the Rocky Mountains.

Canadian shipments, which enter the U.S. at the west coast, were largely unaffected until Jan. 1, when the administration extended the restrictions to the Pacific coast region. Under the program, Canadian imports were reduced to 64,000 barrels a day from their 1957 daily average of 81,700 barrels.

The state department last month rejected a Canadian diplomatic protest over the extension of the reduction to Canadian supplies.

Hoffa Threat To Country, Say Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rackets investigating committee said today James R. Hoffa, president of the teamsters union, is a betrayer of labor and "dangerous to the country."

In a report prepared for the Senate, the committee described Hoffa as a man with a lust for power who has built "a hoodlum empire" in his giant union. It termed Dave Beck, Hoffa's ally and predecessor, a man who could not resist temptation to engage in "thievery" of the union's funds.

And it accused Frank W. Brewster, west coast teamster leader and a lieutenant to both Hoffa and Beck, of involvement in a thwarted "plot to control vice" in Portland, Ore., through crooked deals with politicians and racketeers.

"The stench of corruption permeates many" in the teamsters high command, said the committee headed by Senator John McClellan (Dem., Ark.). More than half the bulky overall text was devoted to the teamsters.

Tory Makes New Charges On Car Sales

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ernie Broome, Progressive Conservative candidate for Vancouver South, produced at an election meeting Monday night a letter from a United States automobile firm refusing a Communist Chinese order addressed to its Canadian subsidiary.

Mr. Broome said the letter was a photostatic copy of one sent by the U.S. head office of the Ford Motor Company to East-West Import-Export Limited, a Vancouver firm which promotes Canadian trade in the Far East.

Mr. Broome said the letter was dated Feb. 12, 1957, and this date was important since Liberal Leader Pearson said last month he is disturbed that the U.S. government is moving to prevent such sales and that the Canadian government should protest its action.

This particular sale was prevented at a time when Mr. Pearson was external affairs minister, Mr. Broome said. "This is just another indication of the subservient attitude taken by the Liberals in their dealings with the U.S. government."

He said the Progressive Conservative government is opening up trade with Communist China and formal recognition is "just a matter of time."

The letter was first made public in Windsor, Ont., last week by Canadian director George

ERNE BROOME

Burt of the United Auto Workers union. Mr. Broome said it quoted U.S. state department embargo regulations on Red Chinese trade and said these applied to Canadian subsidiaries.

In Ottawa Saturday a government trade official said the government had not been involved in the reported deal.

M. W. Sharpe, deputy minister of trade and commerce, said no application for export permits for cars had been received. He said the federal government would probably grant a permit if approached.

Guerrilla War Mapped by Rebels To Halt Gov't Army in Sumatra

MEDAN, Sumatra (AP) — Government troops fanning out from this north Sumatra town appear to have checked the spread of Indonesia's civil war in north Sumatra. The rebels threaten to counterattack, but they face a rough road back to Medan.

Their initial advantage lost, the insurgents' best hope now seems to be to extend guerrilla action which could tie up Jakarta forces in a long costly action.

2,000 Tickets Sold On Kinsmen Bingo

More than 2,000 tickets in two days have been sold for the ninth Victoria Kinsmen bingo game at Memorial Arena, April 14, bingo chairman Jack Philion said today.

Tickets are on sale at Eaton's. A list of $10,000 in prizes is headed by a $3,200 new car, the fifteenth to be given away by the Kinsmen.

Those are the conclusions reached after a four-day trip—by bus, car, speedboat and foot—from the rebel capital of Bukittinggi back and forth across "battle" lines three times.

Both sides apparently have been disappointed by developments in Medan, which went over to the rebels nine days ago after the town garrison mutinied, then was recaptured by the loyalists.

The outbreak in Medan cost Jakarta money, time and troops which could have been used to invade rebel hotbeds in central Sumatra. Many of the loyalists are still tied up at Medan.

For the rebels, any civil war was better than none, but they had hoped to take over all north Sumatra.

As the situation now stands, the front lines extend beyond the resort town of Prapat on Lake Toba south of Medan. The loyalists took over that rebel stronghold last week and moved in with artillery.

Rebel informants said the leader of the Medan mutiny, Maj. Boyke Nainn Golan, had headed for the hills southeast of here with remnants of his force.

Bill Hennigar, Manager of the Meat Buying Department of the W. H. Malkin Co. Limited, is portraying Century Sam and pointing to the two railway cars of Malkin's Canned Fruits and Vegetables just arrived in Malkin's warehouse in Esquimalt. ## ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Skier Survives Day, Night In Cold, Rain on Mountain

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER (CP) — A resourceful German-born skier, clad only in a thin shirt, trousers and ski boots, survived a day and a night on chilly Mount Seymour, across Burrard Inlet from here.

Eric Krueger, 28, was spotted just before nightfall Monday by Jack Atkinson and Hugh Schmidberger. They constituted one of three parties which had been looking for Krueger.

The skier was taken down the mountain to North Vancouver General Hospital, and said he felt fine except for being cold and hungry.

A young Scottish hiker died on the 4,000-foot mountain northeast of here last year when he became lost.

Krueger was missing for 28 hours. He said he "huddled beside a fire Sunday night after failing to rendezvous with two ski companions, and walked in circles from noon Monday."

He said he was following a well-established ski trail Sunday when it faded to a single ski mark. He lost his glasses as he swept farther down the slope and became lost.

Krueger said "I knew then that I might not get out until the next day. So instead of getting too tired I concentrated on finding firewood."

He found dry wood at the foot of a bluff, settled down beside a roaring fire hoping it would attract rescuers.

About 3 a.m. it began to rain. He had not eaten since noon Sunday and had only five cigarettes left. Still with his skis, he hiked downhill in the snow Monday morning.

WORKER KILLED
BURNABY — A Vancouver workman was killed when run over by an overhead crane at the Dominion Bridge Co. premises here Monday.

RCMP said Stefano Castaro,

38, was attaching sheet meal to a building about 30 feet from the ground.

They said he was standing on the track when he crane backed up and ran over him.

Mr. Castaro was an employee of Westeel Products.

FERRY SERVICE SET

VANCOUVER—The head of Northland Navigation Limited said Monday night the company will take over the passenger-freight run to central coast points "with or without government subsidies."

Union Steamships Limited abandoned the coast run last January.

Captain H. J. Terry, president

of Northland, said: "We are going into it with or without government subsidies. Ottawa asked us some time ago if we would be interested. We were, but we haven't heard from them since."

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

KELOWNA — Mrs. Marion Pearce, 44, of Kelowna, is slated to be tried on attempted murder charge at spring assizes at Vernon next month.

She is charged in the shooting of her 21-year-old son with a .22-calibre rifle following an argument in their East Kelowna cabin last September.

The youth has since recovered.

A step to the stars!...

The roaring blast that propels it skyward burns, pits and fuses the metal exhaust... at top speed, air friction heats the special alloy of its outer skin to a cherry-red. It travels at thousands of miles per hour to a pre-determined target, accurately guided by its electronic pilot. It's a strategic military weapon... and much, much more. The guided missile is actually a step to the stars. To withstand the high temperature, acceleration and shock encountered in such flights, scientists have had to develop instruments and controls employing new and unusual materials; for example, very high purity metals.

Cominco supplies industry throughout the world with INDIUM, refined to a purity of 99.999%—a valuable metal in electronics. It also makes other super pure metals... ZINC, 99.9995%... LEAD and BISMUTH, 99.9998%—CADMIUM and SILVER, 99.9999%. Metals, with purities considered impossible just a few short years ago, are becoming increasingly important today... We are proud of the contribution our research has made in the field of ultra high purity metals. Metals from Cominco will help carry Man to the stars... at the same time, today in different form, they are bringing new comfort and convenience to every day living.

tioned whether in fact there was a "Conservative" approach to Canada's problems "when personality dominates policy" in the Conservative party.

NO DIVINE GIFT
Historically, the Conservative leader in his many speeches, promising so many exciting things to so many men, may well cause you to ask whether the Conservatism of his party has not been changed. But is this the true voice of Conservatism or merely that of the present leader?

"Surely nothing could be more remote from the hard-headed realistic core of the Conservative party than the oracular fervor and the circus crusades that mark certain Conservative public performances in this election."

Mr. Diefenbaker talked of visions of the future. Mr. Pearson said he did not pretend to be a prophet. He had no divine gift to state with certainty what the future will bring.

"But I do know — and you know — that no land on this globe has a brighter destiny under Providence than ours. I know also that there can be no greater pride and honor for a Canadian than to be called to advance that destiny by taking his full responsibility in helping to make Canada great in all the things that matter."

"In that spirit, Liberalism has fought this campaign and in that spirit—with the support of Liberal-minded Canadians—I believe we shall win it."

Former prime minister St. Laurent tossed a lariat for the Liberals Monday night with an open letter urging support for Lester B. Pearson to restore "the stability and growth that the Diefenbaker government has not been able to maintain."

Because of his health, the 76-year-old retired Liberal leader has spent most of the campaign on vacation in Florida, where he still is.

advance prospects for a summit meeting.
Reading from a prepared statement, Dulles listed four Soviet "price tags" as follows: treating Eastern European satellite governments and Western sovereign states on the same basis; accepting the "legitimacy of the Eastern German puppet regime"; "acquiescence in the continued division of Germany"; and ending four-power responsibility to re-unify Germany.

Dulles also said the Soviets are trying "further to weaken the United Nations," and to formulate items for a summit meeting in such a way that "virtually every item—nine out of 11 — implies acceptance of a basic Soviet thesis that the Western powers reject."

Dulles said he believes the Soviets are still willing to negotiate further in order to have a summit meeting. But if the latest Soviet note is an ultimatum, he said the outlook for a top-level meeting is dark.

Do We Need Midwives In Canada?

"Yes" says a housewife and mother of three. They would help reduce our infant mortality. "No" says one of Canada's busiest obstetricians. It would mean going backward. But what does the word "midwife" mean to you? A superstition-ridden old woman? Or the modern midwife of Britain—an efficient, well-trained obstetrical nurse?

If you are a mother or a mother-to-be, or if you are concerned with the problems of childbirth, you'll want to explore both viewpoints. You'll want to weigh the pros and cons. Read "Do We Need Midwives in Canada?" now appearing in Chatelaine magazine. April Chatelaine on sale at all newsstands on March 20. Only 20c. Be sure you get your copy today.

Pearson Plan Worthy of Talks' Dulles Comments

WASHINGTON (CP)—State Secretary Dulles said today Lester B. Pearson's suggestion that the United States negotiate directly with Russia after working out a careful plan and policy with its allies would place a very heavy responsibility on the U.S.

He told his weekly press conference that the proposal advanced by the Canadian Liberal leader was something the NATO countries would have to talk over. It was something he found difficulty to comment on.

He said he would not slam the door on such unilateral negotiations, but he suggested they would place a heavy responsibility on his country.

Pearson said last week that he does not believe a summit meeting would be as effective as diplomatic negotiations in settling East-West differences. But if a summit conference were held, "it should be confined to the United States and Russia, with the former having previously discussed with its NATO allies the policies to be put forward."

'UNITY IN FREEDOM'

'Emigration Good' Says Ex-Lord Mayor

By DINAH KERR

A former Lord Mayor of London views the heavy flow of emigrants from Great Britain to Canada and Australia as "a good thing".

There should be more of a "happy flow" among Commonwealth countries, Sir Cullum Welch said here Monday, "because the peace of the free world will depend entirely on the Commonwealth".

"If we stick together then I think the countries behind the Iron Curtain will think twice before they do anything in a major way," he said.

"Non-division coupled with the friendliness of the United States will keep the world free."

LENGTHY JOURNEY

Sir Cullum was to leave Victoria today on the last leg of a journey that has taken him to Australia, New Zealand, Fiji, Honolulu and San Francisco, as director of C. C. Wakefield & Co., Ltd., an all-British firm specializing in lubricants.

Knighted in 1957 at the end of his term as Lord Mayor, Sir Cullum said bonds between Canada and Great Britain will be strengthened even more by Princess Margaret's visit to British Columbia in July.

"She's a charming young lady, with all the grace of all the Royal family," he said, "I think you'll all love her."

Sir Cullum said he knew nothing of the United Kingdom uproar over testing of nuclear bombs because he hadn't read many papers since his Commonwealth travels began in mid-January.

NO BOMB OPINION

He would express no opinion on whether bomb testing should be banned.

"I'm a lawyer, not a technical man," he said. "You might ask a schoolboy that question and he'd give you just as good an answer. It's a matter of high policy."

Sir Cullum is the second director of the lubrications company to become Lord Mayor of London. The founder, Viscount Wakefield of Hythe, was Lord Mayor in 1915.

The firm recently opened a subsidiary company, Castrol Oils (Canada), Ltd., in Vancouver, with head offices in Toronto.

Gain in Ontario for CCF Victoria Candidate Claims

The CCF party will score a 20 per cent gain in votes, if not in members, in the key province of Ontario in the March 31 election Victoria CCF candidate Victor Williams predicted Monday night.

Mr. Williams made his prediction to an audience of 20 at the Courtney Street CCF Hall Monday night.

He based his statement on the active support lent the party by the Ontario Federation of Labor and the Canadian Labor Congress, through their various publications.

One such publication charged the Diefenbaker government had done nothing about 33 out of 57 campaign promises carefully recorded before the last election.

PROMISES KEPT

On the other hand, said Mr. Williams, the CCF has kept its promises to labor in Saskatchewan, the only province in which it has formed a government. He pointed to provincial legislation establishing three weeks holiday with pay after five years' service, as an example.

The speaker covered several phases of political interest. He told a questioner he would support the sale of cars made in Canada to Red China. He opposed the right of U.S. industrialists to dictate against such sales.

"Until that situation is cleared up, never let anyone tell me Canada is a free country."

Mr. Williams had a cautious answer for a questioner concerned with fluoridation of water supplies:

"Let the majority rule by plebiscite — or send everyone a packet (of fluorides), and let them use it if they desire..."

He told another questioner the problem of retaining or abolishing the continued use of firemen on diesel engines should be settled only by a labor-management agreement.

MORE LEISURE

He linked the problem with the growing trend to automation. If machines are to do the work of men, everyone should work less for the same return, he stated—even 10 hours a week.

Mr. Williams criticized the Diefenbaker government for making capital of the fact a mainland candidate is of Chinese descent.

"It is shameful to use a man's race as an example of Conservative 'progressiveness'—when just a few years ago, the Conservatives opposed granting the franchise to Asiatics. It was the CCF who engineered it. Mr. Jung (Douglas Jung, Vancouver Centre) can thank the CCF," he said.

Mr. Williams devoted most of his address to federal spending for defence compared to the need for federal dollars for education.

OAK BAY HALL PURCHASE BID APPROVED

A bid of $20,000 for purchase of the 46-year-old Oak Bay municipal hall was initially approved by council Monday.

The offer has been made by apartment builder A. K. Smalley, 2706 Dorset who said he has no definite plans as yet for use of the building.

Municipal offices are expected to move within three months to new quarters across the street.

PTA Parley to Study Handicapped Education

A resolution urging the provincial government "to make provision for adequate accommodation and suitable curriculum" for education of mentally handicapped children under the B.C. Public Schools System, will be considered at a B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation convention here April 8 to 11.

Submitted by the board of directors, the resolution also asks that facilities and services of Woodlands School be extended for the benefit of all retarded children, whether resident of the school or not.

Many of the children "are unable to benefit from the type of curriculum currently offered under the schools system, the resolution said, and "interested associations have not the resources to finance facilities for the education of these system."

Woodlands School, it went on to say, "is not at present providing services for many children who need its type of help."

A second resolution from the board asks the federal government to help provide funds for research into methods of education for retarded and other exceptional children.

SAANICH COUNCIL ROUNDUP

Gravel Sidewalk Program Planned for This Year

A $17,742 gravel sidewalk program, mainly near schools, will be undertaken by Saanich this year.

Municipal council Monday endorsed a public works committee recommendation that the proposed sidewalks be gravelled this year and covered with concrete next year.

Council, subject to legal approval, endorsed a recommendation that an oil seal-coating program for Class E roads be undertaken as a maintenance project.

Cost of the work, as provided under the Municipal Act, would be charged against property owners with frontage on the roads on a one-year basis.

Council decided to give the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee $1,500 for entertainment of centennial guests on two conditions.

Requirements are that the other municipalities "agree to their share" and that the fund is administered by a committee of the mayor and reeves. The grant was requested by the committee.

A recommendation urging preparation of a bylaw to regulate off-street parking will be studied by Saanich town-planner Anthony Parr.

The recommendation, made by the municipal town planning commission, will be turned over to him for consideration, council decided.

A resolution urging exemption from income tax for interest from municipal bonds was endorsed by council.

The resolution will go before the 1958 conference of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

Another resolution, urging an increase in jury fees paid by the province, will be sent to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities.

Council doubled its normal grant to municipal employees towards construction of a parade float when it voted to give the association $500 this year for the centennial parade entry.

David Deeprose, Saanich municipal subdivision administrator, was authorized by the council to attend a community planning course at the University of B.C. April 21-26.

Anthony Parr, new town planner, will be asked if he would like to attend.

A request from Central Saanich to purchase water was turned down by council. The council suggested its neighbor should apply to the Greater Victoria Water Board.

Council ordered drafting of a by-law to establish an Advisory Planning Commission as provided by the new Municipal Act. The nine-man commission would supersede the present Town Planning Commission. The new group would have one council representative, five owner-electors, representatives from both school boards and one other person on its roll.
